There are so many tinkling signals these days that one must keep his ears attuned for the proper interpretation. There is the tinkle of the traffic signal bells, and try and neglect their meaning at your own risk! The tinkle of the ice cream cart bells means more to the kiddies than they do to you, but if you forget them, the "kids" won't. The tinkle of the telephone bells has become a custom, and the jingle costs you $3 per month unless you are on a party line. If you go to the Breakfast club they have the song of the tinkling dimes. Bells are ringing in every direction. Wedding bells, the Bells of St. Mary, the scissors grinder bells, bells to the right of you, bells to the left of you, and maybe, if you live right, one of these days you'll "Hear Them Golden Bells."

And then City Attorney Lew Blodgett goes to Alaska just when we are having delightful weather in Southern California. Well, it's his own risk. He never got his credentials from me.

August Elliste wants to tell me something, and I only have two blocks to get the story. That is no reflection on either one of us. August talked fast, and I was able to absorb rapidly, so at the end of the two-block ride we both understand each other, and I "got out." Inasmuch as the subject under discussion is not to reach a climax for three weeks, you see I still have plenty of time to think it over.

Vacations, if to be spent in the mountains, should take into consideration poison ivy and hornets and insects and snakes, and by the way, do you want to spend your vacation in the mountains? Hope I haven't discouraged you.

By request: Irate sub wants me to say something about roaming canines who spend most of their time on the neighbor's lawn. Now, there is a subject near to the concern of most of us. If we do not have a dog, we want the other fellow to keep his at home. If we do have a dog we refrain from criticism, provided we allow ours to roam at will. Unless I have specific information I am not able to handle this complaint impartially. Without specific information I am only going to suggest that you are justified in protecting your property. The method is left to your own judgment. But a BB gun will help.

One of the entertainers appearing before a local club played a golden harp. I believe I'll try that. It may be my only chance.

Is it habit or stimulation or a magnanimous attitude on the part of the good husband which accounts for so many business and professional men getting the morning Java down town. I sort of encourage "over the coffee," and quite often a tip for this column. The cafe man gets the nickel, the patrons their money's worth as the refill is free, and the association is an impulse for the day's labor. It is something to start the day right even if it does finish wrong.

Dr. Hollingsworth talked to a service club about "Sex Hormones" but I refused to get excited about it, although it is an interesting subject and was ably handled professionally. Some one said "it is believed that the hormone of the thyroid gland exerts an important control over the metabolism of the body, and over the process of mental and physical development; in its absence normal growth is stopped." Now I've found out what's the matter with me.

SEN. JOSEPH T. ROBINSON

DEATH BLOW TO COURT BILL

WASHINGTON. (AP) — Senate leaders expressed agreement today the death of Administration Leader Robinson was a "serious blow" to the Roosevelt court bill and some forecast it would be abandoned.

While most discussion of the court bill's prospects was off the record, pending word from President Roosevelt and burial of Senator Robinson, there was wide spread talk among senators of dropping the measure, clearing up the legislative program as quickly as possible and adjourning.

At the White House, however, Chairman Pittman (D., Nev.) of the senate foreign relations committee, expressed the belief that the fight over the bill would be resumed in four or five days.

He was at the executive mansion for a luncheon with the President.

"After the senate pays its respects to Senator Robinson, a period of four or five days," he said, "I believe the court fight will go on."

OPERA STAR WINS DIVORCE

CHICAGO. (AP) — Mary McCormic, grand opera singer who rose to fame under the sponsorship of Samuel Insull, won an uncontested divorce today from her fourth husband, attorney Homer V. Johannsen.

On two occasions this year, she testified, her husband struck her during quarrels about her operatic career and a concert tour she was planning. Johannsen was not in court.

Keeper of the Dump Gets His Pay Raised Today

The Keeper of the Dump got a raise today. Bill Williamson, who directs a little community all his own near Anaheim, will get $35 instead of $25 a month from the county. The city of Anaheim may raise the ante to $35 on its part, too. After 10 years or so of service, a fellow deserves a raise.

Almost a score of men, women and children get their living from that dump—from a distance a nondescript pile of old tin, wrecked automobiles and clouds.

The Keeper himself has eight children. Supervisor Harry Riley told the board of supervisors in getting the Keeper's pay raised.

Two assistants have families, too. The county doesn't pay them, but they eke out a living by selling the junk that other people throw into the dump. And they stay off the relief rolls.

SIX-YEAR-OLD GIRL VICTIM OF ATTACK

Arrest Man, 73; Child Case Warning Issued

The third child-attack case this month was being prosecuted by the district attorney's office today as a 73-year-old Placentia man was jailed on a charge of attempting a criminal assault on a six-year-old girl. And an official drive was launched to end such cases in Orange county.

Jose Reyna, 73, was jailed yesterday afternoon by District Attorney's Investigator Bob Sandon and was to be arraigned by Placentia justice court today on charges of molesting the little girl.

EDICT BY MENTION

Two other such cases have resulted in arrests during the past two weeks—one a La Habra WPA school crossing guard who is charged with molesting a girl student, and the other a Costa Mesa Mexican who yesterday was sentenced to San Quentin for a one to 50-year term for assaulting a Huntington Beach child.

"We are determined to put a stop to these crimes," said District Attorney W. F. Menton today. "This case is a particularly flagrant one, and we intend to prosecute them all to the limit."

Reyna was jailed by Sandon after the little girl's brothers had observed his actions from behind a tree in the orchard.

THREATENED BOYS

Reyna, the boys said, had been attentive to the girl for some time, and on June 24 persuaded her to come with him into the orchard presumably to pick grapefruit. When the girl's brother and another boy attempted to follow the couple, they said Reyna chased them away and threatened them with a shovel.

They walked around through the orchard, they told Sandon, and hid behind a tree, watching Reyna as he attempted to assault the child.

When the girl failed to tell her parents, Sandon reported, the brother told an older sister, and a family conference resulted in a report of the crime to the district attorney's office.

AMELIA HUNT PLANES CUT

HONOLULU. (AP) — Naval authorities directing a vast aerial search along the equator for Amelia Earhart and her navigator, missing 12 days, reduced the number of searching planes today and indicated the hunt would be ended Saturday.

Fliers of the aircraft carrier Lexington awaited passing of a tropical storm today before resuming their "last chance" search for the aviatrix and Frederick J. Noonan, who disappeared on a flight from New Guinea to tiny Howland island.

The storm forced cancellation of an afternoon flight yesterday after 60 planes, departing the great carrier's deck amid cheers of a thousand crew members and cries of "Bring back Amelia and Fred," had fruitlessly scanned 21,000 square miles of the south Pacific during the forenoon.

"Somewhere" in the 265,000 square miles encompassed by the greatest search the navy ever has attempted, the pair were forced down, out of fuel, after missing the small coral islet which lifts itself but two feet above the ocean.

Navy officials indicated the search may end after Saturday's patrol by the Lexington's planes.

WPA TO OUST ALL EXCEPT MOST NEEDY

Purge of Relief Rolls Here Launched Today

A permanent drive and survey to purge WPA rolls of all people not direly in need of relief, will be started tomorrow.

This was the announcement today of Mrs. Katharine Handley, state relief administration head for Orange county. Mrs. Handley's office will conduct the survey.

Present plans call for the survey to be of all WPA cases every 90 days. This would mean that an SRA case worker would call on every person on WPA rolls at least every 90 days, to determine the person's individual need for relief.

Mrs. Handley said it is not the purpose of investigation to deny relief to persons actually needing it. The idea behind the move is to give relief to the persons who really need it, and to no others.

The investigation will get under way tomorrow. Mrs. Handley said her supplementary staff for this work has already been chosen. She expects a staff increase of about 10 persons when the plan is working full time. Administrative costs will go up slightly. Mrs. Handley continued, but the workers probably will save WPA money in the long run because of the number of cases they are expected to have taken off regular rolls.

MARSEILLE, France. (AP) — Six persons were wounded by revolver bullets today in fighting among Rightists and Leftists during ceremonies of Bastille day, France's "Fourth of July."

The shooting occurred as a parade by People's Front adherents to the government of Premier Camille Chautemps passed headquarters of the Rightist Popular party, which is led by Jacques Doriot.

BEACHES GET LIFEGUARDS

The county and the Red Cross moved swiftly today to bring lifeguards to unguarded county beaches.

Dana Lamb, former chief lifeguard at Laguna Beach and "canoe honeymooner" along the coast of Central America, will direct a plan which he hopes will see some 20 volunteer lifeguards on the beaches within two weeks. Action came following a drowning two weeks ago on an unguarded beach, which started agitation along the coast for more complete lifesaving service outside of cities.

Lamb conferred with Sheriff Logan Jackson, and supervisors today voted their approval and name Supervisor John Mitchell to work with Lamb and Jackson.

The county will supply a radio car to patrol the coast. Volunteer lifeguards will be trained by Lamb to serve without pay. The Red Cross will provide life buoys for the beaches, and signs will direct bathers to the nearest telephone.

Cost will be less than $2500, including a car and an inhalator.

The move was approved today by the Red Cross at a special meeting. Jess Paxton, chairman of the Santa Ana lifesaving committee, called a meeting of all Santa Ana Red Cross examiners for 7:30 p. m. next Tuesday in Red Cross headquarters, 624 North Main street, to formulate plans for cooperation with Lamb.

Extradition of Montague Starts

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Acting Governor of William Bray signed today a request for the extradition to New York of M. Laverne Moore, asserted by Thomas W. McDonald, district attorney of Essex county, to be John Montague, mysterious Hollywood, Cal., golf expert, to stand trial for the $600 holdup of a roadhouse in 1930.

SCHOOLS ASK 4 MILLION

More than $4,000,000 will be expended in Orange county schools during the next fiscal year.

This was the announcement today of County School Supt. Ray Adkinson, when he released estimated expenditures of Orange county schools for 1937-38.

Elementary schools have asked for $2,068,503, as compared with $2,048,455 last year. High schools will get $1,727,408, as compared with $1,516,878 last year. The increase of $210,000 is attributed to increased enrollment, as well as to the cost of new plants in several districts. The county's two junior colleges will get an increase of $16,000 over their 1936-37 expenditures when they receive $376,617 for this year's operating expenses. Last year they spent $360,215.

GAS PLANT TAX FIGHT OPENS

Los Angeles got a slight edge today in the first round of that city's fight to keep $2,000,000 worth of machinery at its Seal Beach lighting plant off Orange county's assessment rolls.

Frank R. Knight, superintendent of the Seal Beach plant, testified before the board of supervisors that the machinery in question was not attached to the building.

The machinery has been classified by Assessor James Sleeper as fixed improvements to the property. Los Angeles, which bought the plant this year from a corporation, claims the machinery is movable personal property and as such not taxable.

Supervisors will rule on the Los Angeles protest, July 16. The ruling, which will admittedly be against the city, is expected to precipitate an eventual court battle here against the county, possibly after Los Angeles has paid its taxes under protest, to recover the money.

AIRMEN, LOST 4 HOURS, LAND IN SOUTHLAND

Circle San Diego as Tank Springs Leak

MARCH FIELD. (AP) — Three air heroes of the Soviet Union who flew over the north pole and down to the Mexican border set a new world record today for long distance, non-stop flight.

In their almost incredible feat, they flew possibly 7000 miles.

Fog forced them back from the Mexican border, however, and they landed in a pasture near San Jacinto, Calif., 6262 miles in a direct line from Moscow, their take-off point.

MARCH FIELD. (AP) —

Three smiling Soviet birdmen, from over the north pole, with a world's record of some 6670 miles of non-stop flying in 62 hours and 17 minutes, returned handshaking and greetings with three notes in English, one word each.

They read—"Bath," "eat," and "sleep."

They left Moscow early Monday morning, it was equivalent to 4:22 p. m. Pacific Standard Time Sunday. They landed at 8:27 a. m. this morning in a pasture near San Jacinto, about 25 miles from here.

It was difficult for the well-wishers here even to understand the names, but being army folk the greeters knew the leader of the flight was a colonel. The fliers were Mikhail Gromoff, the Co-Pilot Andrei Yumshoff, and the Navigator Sergei Danilkin.

LOST IN FOG

By signs and pointing they made clear that they had been lost in the fog.

They pointed to San Diego, 70 miles south of here on the map and moved a finger in circles, indicating they had circled around their chosen goal. Then by signs they indicated it was too foggy to land there.

The smiles and signs and map-pointing indicated they had retraced their course northward seeking the army airport here of the first wing, G. H. Q. air force.

GAS TANK SPRANG LEAK

The Soviet fliers indicated they couldn't find the field. They didn't have any maps of it. Then the gasoline tank sprang a leak. They were over the San Jacinto (See FIRST REQUEST, Page 2)

WASHINGTON. (AP) — Secretary Hull said today the United States and Soviet Russia were engaged in negotiations looking toward the extension of the special trade agreement between the two nations.

I'll Tell You

By BOB BURNS

The other day I heard one of these poetic movie actors expounding a theory he's worked out for a happy married life. He says, "It's very simple—all you have to do is to stop every once in a while and remember your wedding day. Instead of looking at your wife the way she is today, close your eyes and see her as you did on your wedding day."

This might work out from the man's standpoint, but there's a catch in it! There's a possible chance the wife might remember the way her husband looked on their wedding day.

Not long ago Uncle Ned had an argument with my Aunt Flutey. He says, "I don't know how in the world I came to marry you!" Aunt Flutey says, "Well, I'll tell you how you came to marry me—you came in a rented tuxedo and a borrowed car!"

Japanese Troops Are Beaten Back At Peiping; Seek Peace Settlement

HOLD PARLEY WITH LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Reinforcements Are Rushed to Sector

PEIPING. (AP)—Peace negotiations are under way at Peiping, a high Japanese source said today, to settle the north China crisis without consulting the national government of Nanking.

The conferees were Chinese Hopen-Chahar political council officials and Japanese military authorities.

No more demands will be made upon the Chinese over the past week's fighting in the Peiping area, the Japanese informant said. He indicated that Japan now asks only an agreement with the withdrawal of Chinese troops from the Wanping-Hsien area, retribution for damages to Japanese forces, suppression of so-called anti-Japanese activities, and a campaign against communism in China.

The negotiations "capable of settlement of the whole North China situation," the Japanese informant said, are going ahead despite the Nanking government's announced determination to recognize no agreement effected locally.

The Japanese high command, meanwhile, rushed 2000 reinforcements from Tientsin, to the Peiping battle area after the Chinese army had been victorious in yesterday's encounter.

At the same time, however, Japanese sources here announced their troops had evacuated the Wanping-Hsien village area near the Marco Polo bridge where the first clash occurred.

The Japanese sources described the withdrawal as "indicating a desire to effect a settlement." This latest development caused another lull in the tension but seemingly did not end the crisis.

The fighting early today was believed to have been an outgrowth of that of yesterday in which a heavily supported Japanese detachment was driven back to the very gates of the city before they were able to wheel and retreat toward Fengtai.

CHINA SPEEDS AID
NANKING, China. (AP)—China's national government today hastened 10,000 troops to concentration points, avowedly determined to resist what Chinese believe is a Japanese effort to dominate the northern provinces of Hopei and Chahar.

Signs of massive military preparations were evident in the capital itself. The Chungshan memorial road which traverses the heart of Nanking was loaded with a variety of military and mechanical equipment.

viewing the big bridges in the San Francisco bay region they appeared much larger than the engineers' specifications, and one of the group, in a letter to "home folk," indicated that the impression of their extent was acquired after some stimulation. He said that certain members of the delegation were inspired, and true to the old Alexander Dumas spirit, concluded, "and so is me."

Some day, maybe in the dim and distant future, when I won't be here to enjoy it, Santa Ana will have a city park—maybe two of 'em. Until that time we can go to Anaheim, a nice neighborly city, and I just as soon go to Anaheim as any other place for park pleasure. Some several years ago there lingered in my hope chest the vision of a park, contrived by a philanthropic citizen, but it blew up as my prospective philanthropist died and failed to make the park provision I hoped for. Since that time I have threaded my way into Birch park for relaxation and recreation, and got a meager result. I hope one of these days the city will be able to buy two parks—one south, one north. About 20 acres each, both modernly equipped. That will stop me. Until that time I expect to present the issue occasionally and irritably.

Deputy Gets Elaine After Broadcast

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—It was an anti-climactic reception for Elaine Barrie—the business of emerging triumphantly from a radio broadcasting room and running smack-dab into the arms of a deputy sheriff.

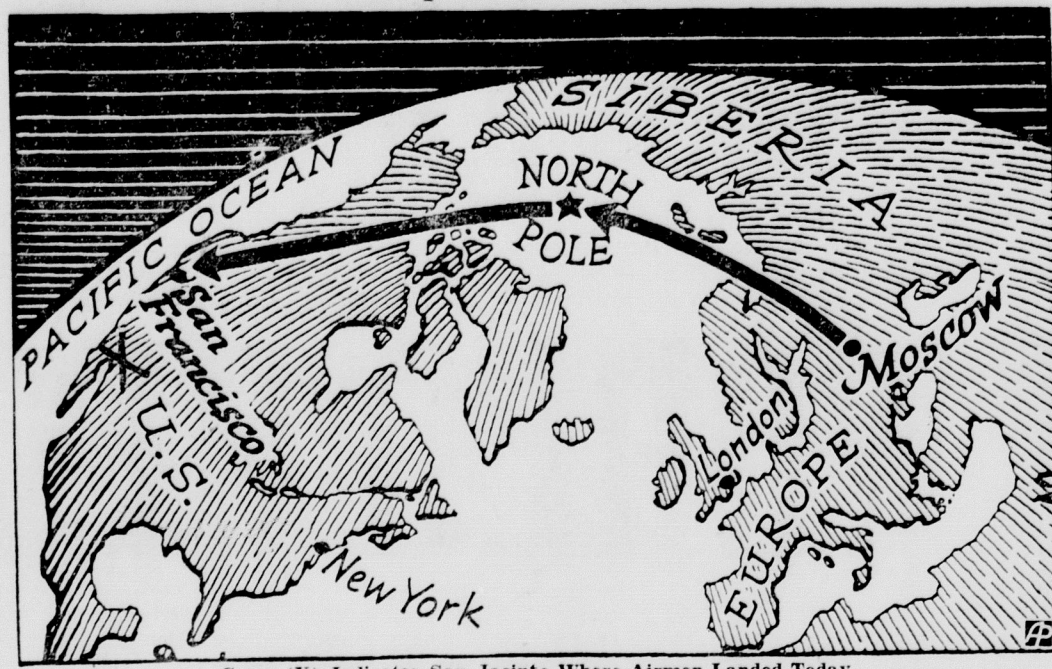

The deputy served her with a summons calling upon her to explain a matter of $445.21 which a bank claims she owes in fees in connection with a real estate escrow.

The summons was served Monday night when she completed a broadcast of Shakespeare's "The Tempest" in which she played "Ariel" to the "Caliban" of her divorced husband, John Barrymore, with whom she has been reconciled.

Route of Intrepid Russian Polar Fliers

FIRST REQUEST OF RUSS AIRMAN AFTER LANDING IS FOR BATH

mountains, only 20 miles from here at one time, apparently. From the maze of mountains and rough terrain suddenly a well-come flat area was seen. It was the pasture, three miles west of San Jacinto. They eased the plane down. The gas tank was leaking a stream. But the safe landing was made after the plane had circled a few times and the fliers were assured of a possible landing.

Several ranchers saw the plane circling and finally land. It was some time before anyone reached the scene however. Word was phoned to San Jacinto by the ranchers, and relayed here. Major Victor H. Strahn jumped into a single-seater army plane and flew to the scene. He was followed by a half dozen army guards in an automobile.

BATH, EAT AND SLEEP
The major greeted the Russian fliers, inspected the plane, set a guard about it and returned by auto to March field with the transpolar birdmen.

The three men beamed with smiles at the greeting but three things were uppermost in their minds.

These were—bath, eat and sleep. The first wish was gratified first. The trio went into the officers' club and planned vigorously the luxury of a bath. They did not stop before the bath to telephone to the Soviet embassy at Washington.

SOVIET CONSUL ARRIVES
While they were in the bath the Soviet consul-general from San Francisco, Grigori Gromoff, flew in. He had been flying most of the night in a chartered plane, seeking to locate the Soviet polar plane.

He rushed right into the bath room with them. He was the first to speak their language and from the closed doors in addition to the splashing of water vigorous and hearty conversation in the Russian tongue was heard.

The three fliers were in high spirits. LANDS IN PASTURE

Army officers disclosed that R. H. McCoy, employee of a lumber company at Hemet, near San Jacinto, first saw the plane circling in the San Jacinto region. He saw it settle down in the cow pasture. He rushed over, but the only thing he could understand was the note the Russian fliers handed him—"bath."

The plane was in a drainage ditch, but McCoy could find no immediate answer to the problem of the minute—a bath.

It was an hour and a half after the landing that the army fighting ship of Major Strahn circled the field and came to a nice landing in an adjoining cow pasture. While the major was greeting the three polar birdmen the army automobile arrived. The major ordered the guards on duty about the plane and drove the three pilots over here.

HEARD RADIO AT POLE
Through the consul-general Pilot Gromoff, in charge of the flight, said their official time was 62 hours and 17 minutes. He said they heard the Russian radio stations clearly until they passed the North Pole. Then the radio reception faded out.

He expressed the wish that the greetings of the three pilots be sent to the Soviet people and the Soviet government.

The three birdmen presented a neat appearance, all with close cut haircuts, and in trim attire. Each wore gray trousers, neatly pressed. Pilot Gromoff wore a blue shirt and was the only one with a necktie. The other two wore cream colored shirts, open at the neck.

Edison E. Macdon, former supervising inspector of the department of commerce for aviation, said that he had wired General W. E. Gilmore, at San Francisco, of the National Aeronautical association requesting the appointment of three men to check the barograph and fuel tanks of the plane. Macdon served on a similar committee for the previous Soviet transpolar flight.

Through the consul general as interpreter, Pilot Gromoff said: "The hardest part of the flight was the takeoff. We had to taxi 1900 meters to get into the air. The second hardest part of the flight was an hour and a half later. We passed through two cycles. The first was between Rudolph island and the North Pole. The wings started icing. But we had a de-icer and got through all right."

His eyes and those of his companions started drooping as they faced the questioners in the sun. This recalled the method they first used, before presenting the card with the word "sleep" to convey their wish. They put their hands against their head and leaned over and shut their eyes.

FEW OVER SAN DIEGO
He was asked why they did not give their position when they were in Southern California.

"It was of no interest to us to tell where we were. We knew where we were going."

He explained how they approached San Diego and circled around, unable to find a hole through the fog, then turned back. "We had some gas left," he resumed with a smile.

"The highest we flew was 18,000 feet, over the Rocky mountains. We used some oxygen. We had oxygen supply for 24 hours use, but did not use it all."

Gromoff, the consul-general explained, is a Soviet ace flier and very proud of his prowess, particularly when compared with the French fliers.

"The French fliers," he said, "have dreamed of a flight from Paris to San Diego. We have made a flight from Moscow."

Gromoff was asked about the fact he believed all long distance power plant of the plane. He said flight efforts should be made with a single motored plane.

When asked why, he scratched his head, talked quite a bit to the consul-general, who finally said: "He says it is more economical with a single motor."

As to immediate plans the consul said: "They need some sleep. So do I. We will sleep here at March Field and tonight, when we wake up, we will determine what plans are to be made."

REACHED MEXICAN BORDER
Gromoff said that they had circled around for four hours in Southern California, and two and a half hours in the San Diego vicinity, saying they had gone as far as the Mexican border.

"Our distance was about 10,000 kilometers," he said.

"The weather was most difficult at the roof (meaning the north pole). There were cyclones at some places and in other places anti-cyclones."

It was not officially determined whether the plane was actually leaking gas when it was in the air. Army officers said further inspection, after their first report that it had come down leaking, indicated that the wing containing gasoline supply may have sprung a leak in the landing near San Jacinto.

MADMAN STABS BOY TO DEATH

QUINCY, Calif. (AP)—Scott Bays, 19, was killed almost instantly when an apparent madman Sheriff L. A. Braden reported, plunged a knife into the youth's heart.

Bays and an unidentified companion had stopped on the road to take pictures when a grizzled middle aged man emerged from a thicket.

"What can we do for you?" Bays was quoted as asking.

"You can't do anything for me. I'm going to kill you," the man replied as he drew a knife and lunged at the boys.

Bay's companion escaped when a truck came into view on the road near Keddie and the slayer vanished into the woods.

Holds 21 Jobs To Show World He Likes Work
OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Twenty-one jobs kept Francis P. Matthews, Omaha attorney, on the jump day and night.

He is deputy supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus, president of a savings and loan company, president of a securities acceptance corporation, counsel for the Nebraska and Wyoming division of the RFC, vice-president of the Omaha community chest, Nebraska representative on the New York World Fair advisory board, director of the Omaha Utilities district, and a member of numerous chambers of commerce, relief and social committees.

Matthews attends every meeting of the committees unless other work (and it's got to be important) keeps him away.

Until recently Matthews was active in politics, serving four years as chairman of the county central democratic committee, but the only public office he ever ran for was the Utilities district directorship.

"I enjoy it; that's why I do it," he says.

Giant Crab of Japan Shown
BUFFALO, N. Y. (American wire)—Biggest of all its species, one of the giant crabs of Japan was on display today at the Buffalo museum of science. It has eight spine-hooked legs with a reach of 11 feet. The giant crab is valued by Japanese for the meat and the shell. The shell is painted fantastically and hung on a fisherman's house to frighten evil spirits away. For all its sinister appearance, the giant crab is harmless.

ASK $500,000 FOR ASSAULT
LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Suit for a half a million dollars' damages against Hal E. Roach, president of the Hal E. Roach studios, Culver City, and a half a hundred others was filed in superior court here today by Patricia Douglas, 20-year-old film extra, on a charge she was criminally attacked during a party at the film executive's ranch.

Named with Roach were his casting director, Vincent Conniff, along with Edward J. Mannix, vice president and general manager of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and David Ross, Chicago sales executive for M.-G.-M. Fifty John Does also were listed as defendants.

Miss Douglas' complaint, filed through her mother, Mrs. Mildred Mitchell, claims she was debauched against her will. She seeks $100,000 actual damages and $400,000 punitive damages.

Today's action followed a grand jury investigation several weeks ago. At that time it refused to return indictments on Miss Douglas' complaint against Ross.

Roosevelt Sends Congratulations

WASHINGTON. (AP)—President Roosevelt telegraphed his "enthusiastic congratulations" today to the Russian fliers who flew from Moscow to San Jacinto, Cal.

The president's message, addressed to Michael Gromoff, in care of the commanding officer at March field, California, said:

"I have been greatly pleased to learn that you and your companions have successfully completed your flight from Moscow to California, thus, I understand, establishing a new world's record. Your achievement has aroused great admiration, and I wish to express to you my enthusiastic congratulations."

Name Evans Head Of School Group
SANTA MONICA. (AP)—A. K. Evans of Berkeley was elected president here today of the California School Employees association. He succeeds E. A. Haire of Los Angeles who has served two terms.

The association is holding its sixth annual convention and is composed of clerical and office workers of California schools.

In Belfast, Kenelm Lee Guinness, one-time racing driver and inventor, in his will left $500,000 to a wife who divorced him in 1936.

Sheriff Turns Other Cheek As Deputies Attacked
Sheriff Logan Jackson was forced to "turn his other cheek" today in the matter of people attacking officers, and he was slapped a resounding crack.

Two weeks ago Walter Handley, serving six months for beating up O. K. Forgy, process server, was given a parole because of the illness of his wife. The parole was signed by Jackson and District Attorney W. F. Menton.

Yesterday two of Jackson's own deputies—G. F. McKelvey and James Musick—were attacked while performing the same duty on which Forgy met grief.

McKelvey and Musick went to the home of Harry and Katie Wurgafst at 210 West Truslow, Fullerton, to serve a summons and a writ of attachment on their automobile.

The Wurgafsts didn't want to be served. Musick got hit in the eye with the sharp high heel of Mrs. Wurgafst's shoe. Then she snatched the key from the deputies' car and ran in the house with it. Musick said. Her husband also displayed some physical resistance, the officers reported.

So today the deputies were out after the Wurgafsts again. This time with a complaint charging them with resisting an officer, which is a felony punishable by a fine of $5000 or five years in jail.

QUIZ PASTOR IN WOMAN'S DEATH
PARIS, Mo. (AP)—Sheriff Russell Wilkes said today Rev. C. E. Newton, 51-year-old former pastor of the Paris Baptist church, was in custody for questioning in connection with the disappearance and strange death of Mrs. Dennis Kelly, 45, prominent church worker and mother of two children.

Mrs. Kelly's body was recovered from the Mississippi river near Louisiana, Mo., late yesterday. The minister denied any connection with the death of his close friend of years standing, the sheriff stated.

Newton resigned his pastorate here last year. Since then he has been preaching at small churches in other counties but continued to make his home here. He is the father of three grown children.

'Communism Done In Mexico,' Calles
SANTA BARBARA. (AP)—Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, former "Iron man" of Mexico, is of the opinion that "Communism is done."

"It is collapsing from the weight of its own ineptitude and the superstructure of false promises and hopes it has held out to the common people," the former Mexican president said here last night. He came from San Diego to visit Raymond Moley, magazine editor.

"Fascism is still firmly entrenched in certain countries," Calles continued, "but no system can exist permanently, or even for long, that is based on exploitation of the people, rather than upon their genuine welfare."

A Republican-Democratic form of government will be accepted, he said, as the natural and workable system.

Boys Leaving Farms Because Girls Are, Too

AMES, Ia. (AP)—It's the girls who lead the boys away from the farm, says R. E. Wakely, Iowa State college sociologist, after making a survey of why young folks move to town and stay there.

"When rural young people get out of high school they've lost the main social contact of their lives and have nothing to take its place," Wakely says.

"Consequently, the girls who do not marry get out as quickly as they can go to town. The boys must follow them if they expect to find wives. So the town, rather than the rural community center, has become the center of attraction."

"A few are coming back to teach in rural schools and a very few more are staying home, mostly because they can't get away."

WATER QUEEN IN COURT
The Battling Mrs. Bates, erst while Silver Acres Water Queen, finally got her troubles into court today.

Fifty spectators, witnesses, attorneys and Justice D. J. Dodge of Newport township flocked into the Huntington Beach council chambers today. Mrs. Bates is suing six of her Silver Acres neighbors for forcible entry and unlawful detainer—$300 worth—as the result of last year's Battle of the Pumphouse.

Mrs. Bates, who held a $5 lease to the Silver Acres water plant, was ejected last year by 30 thirsty neighbors after she had shut off the water in an attempt to collect bills she said they owed her.

Her attorney, Ray Overacker of Huntington Beach, was pitted against State Senator Harry C. Westover, who represents the six defendants. Justice Dodge was hearing the case because Mrs. Bates filed an affidavit of prejudice against Justice Chris Pannu who dismissed assault charges Mrs. Bates preferred after the smoke had cleared away.

The court session was expected to last all day, with a good chance Mrs. Bates might take the stand this afternoon and therefore a good chance the trial may go over until tomorrow.

Looting Negroes Terrify Woman Store Owner Here

SHOP RIFLED OF STOCK BY CCC MEN

Victim Powerless to Call for Police

Mrs. Howard Pettit today told how 30 negroes "ganged up" on her at her confectionery store here Monday night, and carried off all the plunder they could grab.

Alone at the store on North Main street, Mrs. Pettit was helpless to resist the invasion of the 30 men, who she said were from a CCC camp. While she was waiting on one of them, the others stuffed their pockets with all the candy, cigars and cigars in sight, she reported to the police department.

Today Mrs. Pettit and her husband have the promise of the U. S. army that they will be reimbursed.

A new bunch of enrollees, the 30 young negroes were being transferred from Van Nuys to Camp La Cienega below San Juan Capistrano, when they stopped at the Pettit store.

After Mr. Pettit heard of the invasion, he called Deputy Sheriff Bob Steinberger. He, with Detective Lieutenant Charles Wolford of the Santa Ana police department, visited the CCC camp.

There they contacted Capt. K. R. Rogers and Lieut. John W. Solomon, who were astounded when they heard of the conduct of their charges.

Capt. Rogers asked that the Pettits send him a bill for the stolen goods and said he would assess each boy in the rack 50 cents to cover the amount. And then he asked that he be allowed to punish the offenders "in his own way." The officers agreed.

Mansur Reveals How Sodium Lights Cut Auto Speed

Scientific lighting as an aid to traffic safety was stressed by Frank Mansur of the lighting service department of the Edison company, in an address before the Phi Sigma Tri club at the Y. M. C. A. last night. The use of the sodium vapor light, as it is shown at the junction of 101 highway and Manchester boulevard, was mentioned as an example. The rather unpleasant quality of the light, according to Mansur, produces a reaction in the driver which causes him to slow down automatically, thus reducing the danger of collision.

Mansur spoke strongly in favor of better lighting and better use of modern facilities as a means of protecting vision and preserving the eyes. Recent research has demonstrated that there is a close relation between proper lighting and good health, and the services of lighting engineers are being called into use by those who are careful of their eyes.

In the meeting of the Speakers' club at the Y. M. C. A. last night, Denton Mosier took first place with his speech on "Banking as a Business," which won him the privilege of being a guest at the Number One Teasemasters club this evening. With Sam Long acting as toastmaster, talks were given by Carroll Richardson, G. W. Bassett, Jr., Oliver Stewart and Dick Gardner.

Gun Accident Kills Former Fullerton Man

Everett F. O'Connor, 33, formerly a resident of Fullerton, and a brother-in-law of Mrs. Franklin Davis of Santa Ana, was accidentally killed while hunting in the Santa Cruz mountains, near Los Gatos, last Friday, according to news received here today.

Although the accident apparently happened Friday afternoon, it was not until late Saturday that researchers found the body. The accident is believed to have been caused when O'Connor, stooping under an overhanging limb, fell with sufficient force to discharge the old-fashioned hammer-type shotgun he was using. The charge entered the side of his head, causing instant death.

While in Fullerton, O'Connor was employed at the Pacific Colony in Spadra. He was transferred last year to Agnew, near San Jose, where he worked as a technician. He is survived by Mrs. Davis, two brothers in Sacramento, and two sisters in Grand Island, Neb. Funeral services were held yesterday at San Jose.

DEBATE AIRS LABOR FEUD

More than 100 persons listened to the major labor issue of today debated at the Unitarian church summer forum meeting last night. The question was "Resolved: That the C. I. O. is More Beneficial To The Laborers Than the A. F. of L."

The affirmative was upheld by R. J. Lewis, while W. J. Buzzell, secretary of the Los Angeles central labor council, took the negative. Dr. David E. Henley, professor of economics at Whittier college, presided.

In upholding the affirmative, Lewis maintained that the C. I. O. would make for unity and economy. He contended that the A. F. of L. had been autocratic and expensive. He furthermore held that the union had set workers against one another.

The American Federation of Labor is completely democratic, according to Buzzell in answer to the attack of the affirmative speaker. He contended it is a federation of independent units, and that the C. I. O. was designed to wreck the A. F. of L. to destroy its power and prestige.

Next Tuesday's forum will be led by the Emergency Peace campaign. Workers who have been

JURY QUIZZES 4 ABOUT DYER

LOS ANGELES, (P)—The county grand jury today renewed its investigation of the killing of three small Inglewood girls while the district attorney's office, through Chief Investigator Eugene Williams, declared that all evidence, "checked and rechecked," pointed to Albert Dyer, former works progress administration guard, as the killer.

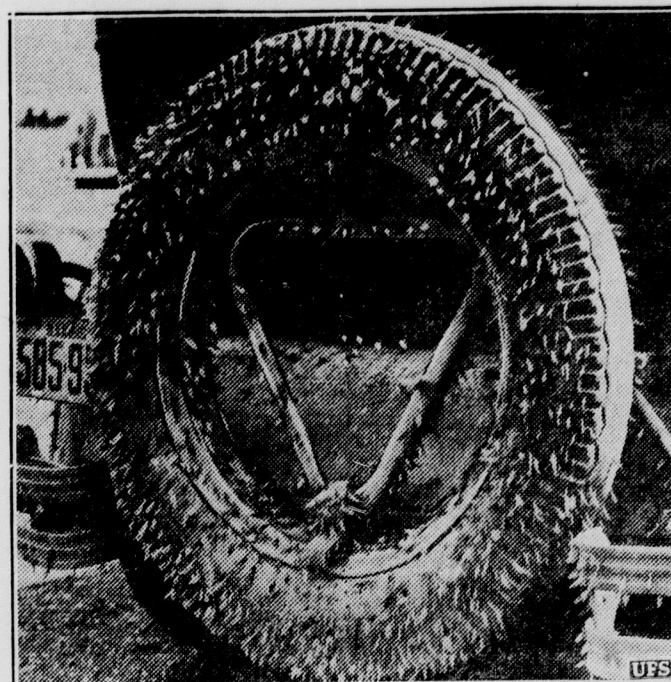

The jury's renewed inquiry started when four persons appeared to claim they had seen Dyer in Inglewood the afternoon that Madeline and Melba Everett and Jeanette Stephens were strangled and ravished in the Baldwin hills June 26.

One of Dyer's alibi witnesses, Haskell Wright, was ordered held, but later was released after his attorney assured authorities he would appear before the jury today.

Wright, Centinela park recreation director, told the jury he believed a mysterious "Eddie the Sailor" lured the girls from the park to the hills and killed them.

FEATURE S. A. ON SIGNS

Tourists desiring to come to Santa Ana no longer need worry about missing it. No sir. The Automobile club of Southern California has seen to that.

After engineers of the club made a survey, it was decided there were not sufficient signs to direct people to this city. Consequently, the club has prominently placed the name of Santa Ana on the new direction signs along the coast highway.

The signs begin near Ocean-side and extend north of Santa Ana.

Elmer Heidt, manager of the local auto club office, said that since the highway is an important one, it was necessary for Santa Ana direction signs to be posted. Heretofore the signs have given more notice to Los Angeles and beach towns.

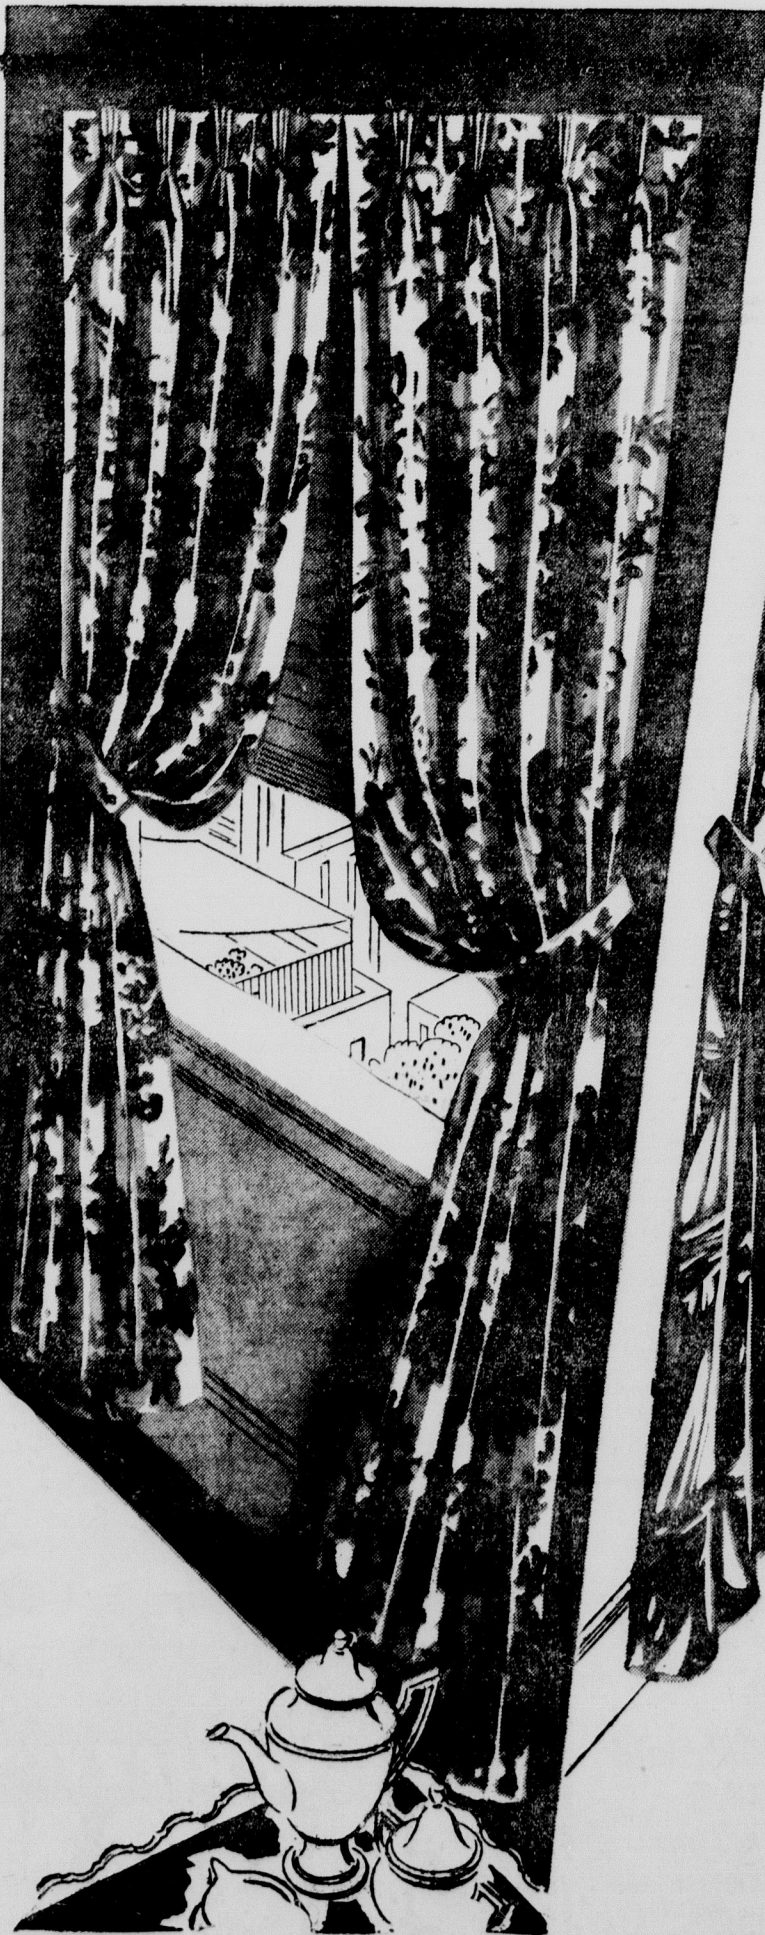

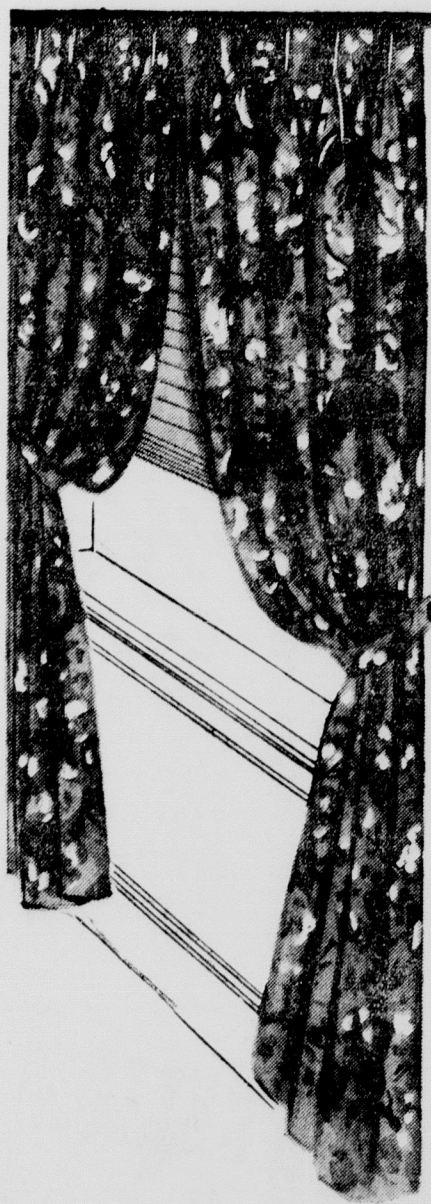

Heidt had received several requests for signs from tourists, he said. He then caused the engineering survey which resulted in posting of the new signs.

SAFETY TIPS GIVEN TRUCK DRIVERS

Local Dodge Official Urges Need for Care

Importance of safety in the driving of trucks was expressed emphatically today by Dick Parker, head of the sales division of Dodge trucks for the L. D. Coffing company, local dealer for Dodge and Plymouth pleasure cars and Dodge trucks. Parker's statement follows:

"Protection of human life is the first thought one should keep in mind when driving a truck. The driver is in direct contact with the public and must, to a large extent, take the blame personally should any mishap occur. He is actually responsible for the reputation of the company for which he works.

"Good maintenance of a truck frequently is the key to safe driving. Before a driver leaves the garage he should make sure that he has checked all equipment. After driving the truck out of the garage, he should travel slowly and get the 'feel' of it so that he can ascertain how the load has been distributed and whether or not the braking equipment has normal braking capacity. If the truck is parked at the curb when he starts out, he should look back before starting.

"It is advisable to keep within the speed laws of both cities and highways and remember that half of the road belongs to the other driver. It is wise to keep a safe distance behind automobiles. When passing a car, a driver should not return to his proper lane too quickly. Above all things, he should not pass on the right side of any vehicle. When making a turn, hand signals should always be given.

"City and state signs which govern trucks should be observed at all times. It is unsafe to pass vehicles on curves, at intersections, and on hills. When a steep downgrade is encountered, greater safety may be assured by putting the truck into lower gears. If it is necessary to stop, the driver should get out and look back before backing up. Lights should be dimmed when meeting other vehicles. Never park on the highway.

"Many a truck driver has made friends for himself and his company by helping in some way around some unfortunate who has been stalled on the highway. Should a driver get sleepy, he should immediately stop his truck in a wide spot beside the highway and take a nap because many a driver who is actually asleep with his eyes open has been responsible for dangerous accidents.

"These rules are easy to follow, but the violation of them provides situations which may lead to disaster. The alternative of safety is too expensive at all times."

Ex-Gangster Dies Respected Citizen

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—A retired and respected citizen at his death, Emmett Dalton, notorious member of the Dalton gang that terrorized the middle west before the turn of the century, will be buried this afternoon.

The man who was shot 23 times and escaped lynching at the hands of infuriated citizens of Coffeyville, Kan., during an unsuccessful raid on a bank on Oct. 5, 1892, died at his modest home here yesterday, slipping peacefully into unconsciousness after a long illness. He was 66 years of age.

Dalton, after his recovery from wounds suffered in the Coffeyville battle in which his brothers, Bob and Grat, were killed, was sentenced to life imprisonment. He served 14½ years and was pardoned. He came to California 17 years ago, joined a church and entered the real estate business. He was the author of the book, "When the Daltons Rode," and wrote and appeared in films briefly.

President's Son Won't Seek Office

WASHINGTON. (AP)—James Roosevelt, son and secretary of the President, said that published reports he might announce his candidacy for governor or lieutenant governor of Massachusetts were "one of those annoying things."

The reports followed the younger Roosevelt's action in inviting 229 Massachusetts publishers and editors to a conference in Boston Friday to consider means of absorbing in private industry 35,000 workers being dropped from WPA rolls in that state.

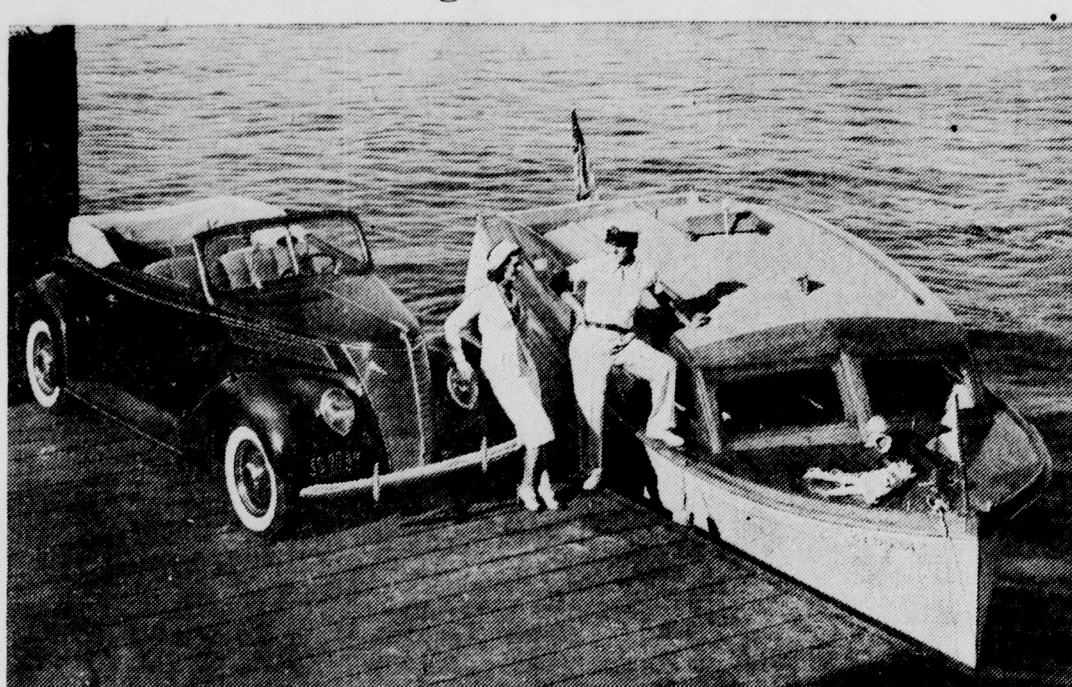

"It is one of the annoying things in my official work here," he said, "that I can make no move or statement without having a political aspiration ascribed to it."

13 Californians Vote Against Veto

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Thirteen Californians voted with the majority as the house overrode the President's veto yesterday of legislation continuing low interest rates on farm loans for two more years.

Voting to sustain the President were Representatives Golden, Dockweiler, Ford, Kramer and Tolan, democrats, and Havenner, progressive. Only Californian not voting was Representative Scott, democrat.

V-8 Power Brings Cool Summer Pleasure

For cool summer pleasure there is Ford V-8 power for land or sea. The trim and speedy motorboat which has just pulled in to the landing float at the Los Angeles Harbor is powered with the same type Ford V-8 engine that is under the hood of the attractive Ford V-8 club cabriolet pictured above. In fact, so inviting are the cool ocean breezes, that the pretty Miss is accepting the skipper's invitation to try the same smooth V-8 ride on the ocean that she is so accustomed to on land. The club cabriolet is rapidly gaining popularity with people who like the open sky, according to reports received from George Dunton, local Ford dealer.

ORGAN SERIES BEGINS SUNDAY

First in a series of summer organ recitals to be given by Halstead McCormack will be presented Sunday afternoon at the First Methodist church, Sixth and Spurgeon streets, it was announced today by the Rev. Harry I. Rasmus, jr., pastor. The public is invited.

According to the Rev. Mr. Rasmus, a program of outstanding merit and interest has been prepared for the first recital. It will be similar to the programs inaugurated two or three years ago, he said.

A portion of Sunday's program will be devoted to the organ works of Johann Sebastian Bach. His "Prelude and Fugue in D Major," "Bourree in G Major" and the chorale-prelude, "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring," will be played. Featuring each recital will be the appearance of various assisting artists. Miss Esther Vogt, Santa Ana pianist and Cecilia Singers accompanist, will play a group of Chopin numbers Sunday.

Miss Vogt will also assist McCormack in a second performance of Joseph Clokey's "Symphonic Piece," a five-movement work for organ and piano.

Noonan's 'Last Letter' Received

HOLLYWOOD. (AP)—A letter, perhaps one of the last written by Capt. Fred Noonan, was received at Paramount studio today by actress Gail Patrick.

It was mailed June 5 in Fortaleza, Brazil, just before Noonan and Amelia Earhart took off for Natal and South Africa.

Miss Patrick, who has known Noonan a year, said the letter is in a cheerful tone and told her that the navigator was giving personal attention to her around-the-world flight cover for her stamp collection.

Hubby Reserved Room in Home For First Wife

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Christine Edwards Elinor, violinist, testified today in winning a divorce from Carl Elinor, orchestra director, that immediately after their marriage in May, 1935, he reserved a room in their home for his first wife.

"He asked me to stay out of the master bedroom," she said "until he could see if his first wife would come and stay in it on week ends. Then he took a silver fox fur and some clothes that belonged to his first wife out of a closet and placed them on the bed and again asked me to stay away from the room."

"Do you mean to say," Superior Judge Charles Haas asked in astonishment, "that your husband intended to entertain his divorced wife in your home on week ends?" "Yes," she replied.

Whether the first wife ever returned, however, was not brought out in the testimony.

German Embassy In U. S. Picketed

WASHINGTON. (AP)—A picket, one of four, paraded a "Stop Killing Spanish Babies With Fascist Bombs" placard in front of the German embassy.

Another paced the embassy with the legend:

"The American Friends of Spanish Democracy demand that Hitler Withdraw German Troops From Spain."

Although denied a police permit to picket, the pickets were unmolested during the hour and a half they stood watch. The police sergeant in charge of the detail watching them said they violated no law.

DEATH SHOCK ROBINSON'S

charge of the administration's two major legislative campaigns to enact President Roosevelt's bills to reorganize the courts and the executive departments. His colleagues generally had expected his appointment to the supreme court to fill the vacancy created by the retirement of Justice Van Devanter.

Although Robinson's health had not been quite as good as in former years, his sudden death was a tremendous shock to his senatorial colleagues and all of official Washington.

HAD BEEN WORKING HARD

The Democratic leader had been in recent weeks in an effort to working with terrific energy to devise a compromise court bill for which he could obtain senate approval. The substitute measure now under debate was drafted under his direction.

He also had given close personal attention to the government reorganization program. Two or three weeks ago he personally introduced a compromise bill to carry out the chief executive's reorganization program and had called his committee to begin work on it today.

Some of the Arkansas senator's closest friends, however, had been disturbed by his physical condition.

He had missed several days from the senate during recent weeks due to the strain on his physique.

WAS FEELING ILL

After attending a strategy conference with his chief lieutenants on the court bill yesterday morning, Robinson returned to his home instead of attending the senate session because he did not feel up to par. There was no indication, however, that his illness was serious.

Robinson's home, where he was found dead today, is directly across the Capitol plaza from the senate wing of the Capitol. He was temporarily living alone as Mrs. Robinson had gone home to Little Rock, Ark.

SUCCESSOR DISCUSSED

The sudden death of Robinson gave rise immediately to speculation over his successor as Democratic leader. When talk of his possible appointment to the supreme court began, three major possibilities were mentioned for leader—Senator Byrnes of South Carolina, Harrison of Mississippi and Barkley of Kentucky.

Robinson, for the past 15 years Democratic leader in the senate, has been one of the outstanding political figures in Washington. After attending the University of Arkansas and the Virginia law school, Robinson began reading law in a small lawyer's office back in 1902. Two years later, he was elected to the general assembly of his home state.

ELECTED IN 1902

While serving in the legislature, Robinson continued to practice law, and has, off and on, since. But public office became his chief career when he was elected to congress in 1902, during the administration of President Theodore Roosevelt.

After serving in the house 10 years, Robinson retired to become governor of Arkansas. He only stayed in the governor's office a few months, however, because a vacancy appeared in the senate and he was quickly chosen to fill it.

Robinson was only serving his second term in the senate when he became the recognized leader of the opposition to ratification of the Washington arms treaty. This projected him into position to be chosen Democratic leader in 1922 when Oscar Underwood of Alabama, retired from that post.

LEADER UNDER F. D. R. When the Democrats gained control of the senate along with the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Robinson became majority leader. As such, he has been the New

BUILDING HERE UP $12,955

City building inspector Harold Rasmussen yesterday learned across his counter in the city hall and dealt out 14 building permits representing future construction totaling $12,955—one of the biggest single-day issues of the year.

Largest of the permits went to L. J. Bushard, 2006 North Flower street, who will build a seven-room residence with garage at a cost of $8,000. Allison Honer is contractor.

The Richfield Oil company announced its intention to build a $3,000 distribution at 836 Logan street with Miller and Miller as contractors.

Nine of the other permits were for roofing.

Deal's legislative chieftain, and steered through congress the mass of new laws initiated by President Roosevelt's administration.

Even before he became senate leader, Robinson had become recognized nationally in the Democratic party. He was chairman of the party convention in 1920 which selected Roosevelt as vice presidential candidate.

RAN WITH AL SMITH

Eight years later the Democratic convention chose him as vice presidential candidate to run on the ticket with Governor "Al" Smith, of New York. Because of that, he had been chosen as the official administration spokesman for replies to Smith's attacks on the New Deal.

Again in 1936, when Roosevelt was renominated at Philadelphia, Robinson was the convention's permanent chairman.

In his capacity as majority leader during the New Deal, Robinson supported the administration's program from beginning to end. Critics have contended that he was abandoning his principles in doing so, because he was a conservative at heart.

WAS POPULAR SENATOR

But others have contended that Robinson's career displayed a consistent streak of liberalism. From his early house days he supported child labor and anti-trust legislation as well as other measures characterized as "liberal."

He was without doubt one of the senate's most popular members, despite a violent temper which on occasion caused him difficulties. Away from work, Robinson was one of the most genial of men. He was famous for his story telling. His chief recreations were hunting and fishing.

FAVOR 3 FOR SENATE POST

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Three names figured most prominently today in speculation over selection of a Democratic senate leader to succeed Senator Robinson of Arkansas, who died during the night.

The three are Senators Harrison of Mississippi, Byrnes of South Carolina and Barkley of Kentucky.

All three had been close advisors to Robinson during his arduous days as majority leader in charge of a gigantic New Deal legislative program.

HARRISON FINANCE EXPERT Senator Harrison, the veteran in point of service, has been chairman of the powerful finance committee since the Democrats obtained control of the senate in 1933, and has been directly in charge of such legislation as NRA, social security, reciprocal tariffs, and the annual tax measures which have figured prominently in the Roosevelt legislative program.

BYRNES CLOSE TO F.D.R. Senator Byrnes is just starting his second term, but served in the house from 1911 to 1925. He has been regarded by some as closer personally to President Roosevelt than any other senator, but in the past year has broken spectacularly with the chief executive on several major issues.

Last session Byrnes was one of the leaders in fighting for payment of the bonus, despite objections from the White House. This year he has dissented from White House leadership on the labor question and economy. Byrnes led the move to attach a legislative rider to one of the administration bills condemning sit-down strikes, a move designated to force President Roosevelt to declare himself on this issue.

BARKLEY WAS KEYNOTER

Senator Barkley, who has served as leader whenever Robinson was absent, has been more regular in voting for administration measures than almost any one else in the senate. He was keynoter at both the Democratic national conventions which nominated President Roosevelt.

If a dispute over the senate Democratic leadership should develop, a number of other candidates might figure in the contest. Among these are Senator Wheeler of Montana, now the leader of the court bill opposition.

Townsend News, Views

By
WALTER R. ROBB

From all reports coming to the writer there was a very interesting meeting held in Santa Ana last Saturday night. The meeting, it seems, was sponsored by Club No. 4 of that city and a crowd of approximately 250 was present to hear the speaker, who was none other than Harry D. Riley, Orange county supervisor. Rev. S. L. Winger, who is a member of the advisory board of this club, introduced Riley to the audience. Riley is said to have made a real Townsend type speech, pleading for harmony in Townsend ranks and pointing out the need of the Townsend plan principles being incorporated into the law of the nation. He outlined the benefits that could come to the nation in the adoption of the two per cent transaction tax as a medium for furnishing funds for old age annuities and needed education of business volume. He also pointed out the need of a permanent circulation of money in a volume such as the Townsend plan would provide and suggested with such permanence established in money circulation there would be prevented periodic recurrence of depressions and their accompanying suffering.

It seems that the ones responsible for calling the meeting had neglected to invite the district board or District Manager J. H. Walsh, but news travels rapidly in Townsend circles and when the meeting was in progress, behold, on hand were District Manager Walsh and eight out of the nine members of the district board. It just goes to show that the district board group and the district manager are on their toes. The meeting is said to have been conducted in regular Townsend form with no omissions in the opening or closing of the meeting. One lady in the audience whose name is unknown to the writer is said to have raised an objection because in a prayer offered in behalf of a number of Townsend leaders the name of Dr. Townsend was omitted. The report is that her loyalty to the doctor only resulted in her being asked to sit down. Reports coming to the writer are that the members of the district board were shown very courtesy, but District Manager Walsh did not share such consideration.

Last Friday evening Santa Ana Club No. 11 held its semi-annual election of officers and in the voting selected Fred Seifert for president, E. G. Warner, vice president, Mrs. E. G. Best, secretary, and Mrs. F. E. Moll, treasurer. This club meets in the Franklin school at 1512 West Fourth street every Friday evening.

Tomorrow the Townsend ladies' auxiliary will meet at 1:30 p. m. in Santa Ana Townsend hall at 509 West Fourth street, according to Etta Bryant, speakers' bureau head for Orange county. The requests that all lady members of the Orange county clubs be present for the tomorrow afternoon meeting. It is planned to hold an election of officers who will carry the responsibilities of the group for the next six months.

Now is the time of all Townsendites who are opposed to the supreme court reorganization bill to write their congressman from this district and also the two United States senators from California and tell them so. Ask them to use their influence as your representatives against the bill. If they are already voicing their opposition, tell them of your appreciation. Address them as follows: Honorable Harry R. Shepard, House of Representatives, Washington, D. C., and Senator William C. McAdoo or Senator Hiram W. Johnson, United States Senate, Washington, D. C. Your letter need not be lengthy unless desired. A mere statement of your opposition, courteously phrased, will be just as effective as a more lengthy communication.

Last Friday evening in the Santa Ana Unitarian church, speaking at a Townsend meeting sponsored by Santa Ana Club No. 10, Colonel Ralph D. Horton of Los Angeles held the large group assembled spell-bound with the force of logical eloquence offered in behalf of the Townsend plan principles and their author—Dr. Francis E. Townsend. Col. Horton always captivates the Orange county Townsend audiences with his well-prepared and forcefully delivered messages. Friday evening he stressed the contribution to practical Christianity which the Townsend plan movement had made, particularly pointing out the fellowship and spirit of brotherhood which everywhere prevail in general among Townsend folk. He said the movement had made possible for every one of its members to make a definite contribution to the cause of humanity.

He told of the humbleness which was characteristic of Dr. Townsend and how all his lifetime he had been engaged not in making money but in bending his energies toward the relief of suffering humanity. He likened the doctor to Moses, at whom the people grumbled while he was trying to lead them into a land of promise. He pointed out how his steadfast purpose constantly remained to urge further advances in behalf of Townsend plan principles at a time or times when other leaders were turning aside to other things. He told of Moses' failure to reach the promised land but how the

OPEN BATTLE BREAKS OVER DOCK UNIONS

Bridges Serves C. I. O. Ultimatum on Ryan

NEW YORK. (AP)—Threats of raids and counter-raids in the nation's union labor camps have touched off the heralded "open warfare" between John L. Lewis' C. I. O. and the American Federation of Labor for control of 40,000 members of the International Longshoremen's association. As a prelude to the struggle, leaders on both sides held conferences behind locked doors.

Principals gave every indication of a fight to the finish, with Joseph P. Ryan, veteran I. L. A. president, declaring: "We're not taking ultimatums from anybody."

BRIDGES TAKES ACTION

The "ultimatum" was served on Ryan yesterday by Harry Bridges, sharp nosed little leader of Pacific Coast longshoremen, the so-called "brains" of the 1934 West Coast maritime strike which paralyzed shipping for 77 days and cost an estimated $100,000,000.

Bridges informed Ryan that the C. I. O. was determined to invade the nation's waterfronts and enroll both longshoremen and warehouse workers.

LIKE PRICKLY HEAT

Ryan retorted: "I'm not interested in any statement that Australian Communist (Bridges) makes. To me he is like prickly heat."

Ryan also threatened "retaliations" in other C. I. O. dominated fields if Bridges pushed his ultimatum to a show-down.

In reply, Bridges announced that the C. I. O. would charter pier and warehouse men on the East Coast under separate charters and carry the fight directly into Ryan's own territory.

Officials in the rival camps declined to comment on what ramifications might develop from the inter-union feud, particularly as to the possibility of further costly maritime strikes such as have plagued both coasts during the past three years.

'King Anthony' Fined One Pound For Phoney Bill

SOUTH END-ON-SEA, England. (AP)—"King Anthony the First," a pretender to the British throne, was fined a pound sterling, about five dollars, today as the result of his currency program in one-man opposition to the Bank of England.

A South End-On-Sea court convicted the would-be king, otherwise known as Anthony Hall, a former police inspector, on charges of selling his currency leaflets in a restricted area.

"King Anthony" stoutly denied the charge.

The pretender prints his own currency notes bearing this inscription: "Specimen Currency, Royal Mint of England, One Pound."

CONVICT ARMY INVADERS BRAZIL

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana. (Canadian Press)—An army of bush negroes and Aboriginal Indians led by fugitives from the French penal colony of Cayenne, were reported in northern Brazil.

Hundreds of the negroes and Indians were well armed and driving families from the district. Refugees sought haven at the city of Ealem.

Political unrest in Brazil, it was said here, prevented the federal government from dispatching troops to aid the state militia. The bandit army was said to have invaded Amapa, rich mineral area.

Souvenir Stamp Chosen by Farley

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Postmaster General Farley selected the 10-cent Smoky mountain postage stamp of the national park series as the motif of a souvenir sheet to be issued in connection with the 43rd annual convention of the Society of Philatelic Americans at Asheville, N. C., Aug. 26-28.

Officials might develop from the inter-union feud, particularly as to the possibility of further costly maritime strikes such as have plagued both coasts during the past three years.

HOME SURVEY ASKED BY FDR

WASHINGTON. (AP)—President Roosevelt said he had asked government departments concerned with housing matters to make a detailed survey of the nation's housing problem, treating rentals as well as home ownership.

He told his press conference after conferring with representatives of nine government agencies that building of new houses was lagging seriously behind at present due principally to increases in construction costs.

Saying that more than 50 per cent of the wage earning population of the country lives in rented homes and that the administration has done virtually nothing to lower rentals, the chief executive said that this problem now must be taken up seriously for the first time.

One of the special problems in which he asked his conferees to study and report was the suggestion of the creation of a limited dividend corporation financed by savings of renters.

Such an agency would function much like a building and loan association but would be used for building houses and apartments for rent instead of for ownership.

Train Hits Truck; 2 Die, 5 Hurt

OAKLAND. (AP)—Two youths were killed and six other persons seriously injured yesterday in a collision between a truck and a Southern Pacific passenger train at Sunol crossing, 30 miles south of here.

The dead were John Elias, Jr., 19, and Nicholas Gallegas, 16, both of Stockton. The injured are five members of the Elias family, Peter, 11; Rudolph, 17; Nicholas, 7; Joseph, 6; and Manuel, 14, and Felix Sunadia, 13, also of Stockton.

Trade Pact Seen With New Zealand

Yosemite has gone ga-ga over the softball pitching of Ray Cokeley, the piano-legged blond of track-and-field fame at Orange High and Santa Ana Jaycee.

Ray didn't know he could pitch. Neither did the Yosemite valley nine of the Mariposa Nightball league until the club tested him the other day. Cokeley fanned eight of the first nine men he faced.

His feat, however, is nothing to get excited about in Orange county because the competition, needless to say, is far below the caliber of the National Nightball league.

Back from a week's vacation, Franklin Guthrie of The Journal sports staff reports Cokeley, who will be driving a food truck at Yosemite all summer, will return to S. A. J. C. in September, report for football under Bill Cook and Blanchard Beatty.

Who breathes behind the big red robe that enters the Orange County Athletic club ring on Monday nights?

Name the wrestler and you can have a season's pass to the Highway 101 arena, says Promoter Sam Sampson.

Matchmaker Tige Clinton knows the mysterious one, of course, but he won't talk. Neither will Scarlet Mr. X. I cornered him in the dressing rooms the other night, asking, "Hasn't anyone guessed your identity?"

With a straight face, the robed one stood there like a knot on a log, his lips sealed tightly.

Scarlet Mr. X only grunts at the state inspector. He comes robed in mystery, and leaves the arena that way. Without the mask, he would only be a fair drawing card, because he's no Detton, no Steinke, no Lopez, no Lutze.

What are some of the Saints doing this vacation?

Fullback Bill Musick, brother of Jim Musick of U. S. C. and Boston pro football fame, is employed in a filling station.

Bill Milligan, heavyweight tackle who is headed for the Dons, works part-time at Joe's Grocery. Ralph Pagenkopp, the halfback, is employed by Southern Counties Gas and the West Coast theater.

Larry Stump, one of Bill Foote's best wingmen, caddies at the Santa Ana County club.

Horace Snow, one of the most active of the Santa Ana Stars' nightball commissioners, and yours truly both called Santa Ana's upset victory over Huntington Beach.

DODGERS' ACE HITTING .335

Giants Shade Phils 11-10 on Moore's Fifth Hit in 10th

By BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

The calmest man in Flatbush when Henry Emmett Manush was left off the National league's all-star team was Henry Emmett Manush.

Brooklyn thought Henry Emmett (Heinie) to you, a National league "rookie" after 14 seasons in the junior circuit, richly deserved a place on the honor squad.

At 35—he'll be 36 next Tuesday—Heinie might not be quite so fast as he was in 1923 when he won the American league batting championship, but at least he was powdering the ball.

Heinie just went on about his business, such as the ninth inning home run yesterday that gave the Dodgers a 2-1 decision over the Bees.

Yesterday's was only Heinie's fourth home run, yet, with 38 runs batted in, he leads his nearest teammate, Cookie Lavagetto, by six. He is tied at .335 with Joe Moore, the Phils' thin man who, after his five for six yesterday against the Giants, is top slugger among the second-place Terrymen.

Moore was the big gun in a 20-hit Giant attack that required 10 innings to nose out the Phils, 11-10. The last of Joe-Jo's five singles drove home the winning run.

In the only game in the American league, the Indians backed up Dennis Galehouse's 7-hit pitching with some snappy fielding to edge out the White Sox 2-1.

The Cards and Pirates, only other National league entries scheduled, were rained out.

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Alberto Lovell, speedy, downy-faced, from the Argentine, thoroughly thrashed big Eddie Simms of Cleveland in a 10-round bout at the Olympic auditorium last night.

Happiest man today in the crowd of 9000 who saw the bounding 24-year-old Argentine chalk up the contested victory was Joe Levy, who is promoting an all-star card at Gilmore stadium July 26.

Lovell, who previously had won acclaim here by nearly knocking out veteran Maxie Rosenbloom and outpointing Andre Legleit of France, meets Red Burman, Jack Dempsey's protege, on Levy's program. A loss would have hurt the show.

Lovell had Simms hanging on desperately in the first and second rounds, and the Clevelandite was left flat on his back at the final bell. A hard puncher, Simms hammered home his best shots in the sixth but they failed to slow Lovell down. Lovell weighed 192, Simms 197.

As plans went ahead for the July 26 event, westerners from the Grand Rapids, Mich., lightweight settled down to train for his 10-round encounter with Pedro Martinez, sensational Puerto Rican, who was due in tonight from New York.

Boxing Bosses

SELDON PICTURED but powerful in the control of boxing and wrestling are the three members of the N. Y. State Athletic Commission. They "outlawed" the Chicago bout in which JOE LOUIS (above) lifted the heavyweight crown from Jim Braddock, then promptly recognized Louis as champion "because there was nothing else to do." Because Max Schmeling, who got the go-by from Braddock, refused to answer cables, they removed him from the ranking of No. 1 challenger and okayed British Empire Champion Tommy Farr as the first to be awarded the chance to dethrone the Brown Bomber. So—meet the commissioners:

BRIG-GEN. JOHN J. PHELAN speaks in non-stop sentences, but he rules the fistie fortunes with an iron hand, making decisions as well on whether a wrestler may apply vaseline to make himself more elusive and on how much pay preliminary boys may receive.

BILL BROWN operates a health camp up on the Hudson river and is the "stormy petrel" of the boxing boss-men. He doesn't like Ex-Champion Max Baer and says so whenever given the chance. And he "spoke up in meeting" so often and vehemently that the commissioners wrangle in private now before announcing important decisions.

Colleges Furnish Greatest Talent In Amateur Golf

NEW YORK. (AP)—Entries for the National Amateur golf tournament close today, and unless there are a half dozen Bobby Joneses and Lawson Littlehens hidden in the field, amateur golf in the United States likely will continue as a side show for the professional game.

Time was when the "love of the game" golfers could spot the pros two or three championships and still emerge with the best and brightest. Back in the early 1900's Walter J. Travis, Jerome Travers and Chick Evans played some pretty fair golf.

Next came Bobby Jones. Some of the fellows who were contemporaries of Jones are still playing—but not regularly. Jesse Sweetser plays in the minor tournaments and yearly for the Sweetser victory cup. George Von Elm turned pro and Lawson Little followed him.

On the basis of last year's returns, Johnny Fischer who beat Jock McLean to take the 1936 championship, is the leading amateur. With him at the top are Johnny Goodman, Reynolds Smith, Scotty Campbell, Walter Emery.

HAXTON FORMS SWIM LEAGUE

Plans for the organization of a swimming league, comprising the community and high school leagues of Santa Ana, Orange, Anaheim and Huntington Beach were under way today by Jess Haxton, Santa Ana Junior college swimming coach.

Haxton said competition would be divided into two classes for those 15 years or under and those above 15. Meets will be conducted at night, and the public will be invited to try out for the four teams.

First, second and third place winners throughout the season will meet in a climactic meet in the 15 years-under division next fall, according to Haxton's plans.

VINCENT LOPEZ WRESTLES ONE OF THREE 'HEAVIES' HERE

With Vincent Lopez, Mexican mat idol as the lure, four of the leading heavyweight wrestlers in this section today agreed to terms and will wrestle on Monday night's four-star card at the Orange County Athletic club.

One of the four—Indian Jules Strongbow, Nick Lutze, Scarlet Mr. X or Hans Steinke—will face the former world titleholder in the three-fall one-hour time limit main event.

According to terms the other three will wrestle in supporting bouts, filling bouts in the order that their names are drawn from a hat.

Although Steinke, with a spectacular draw to his credit against Lopez two weeks ago, would seem the logical choice at this time, fate may decree Lopez to face the unbeaten, unknown Scarlet Mr. X.

Sails Today For Chance At Louis

Tommy Farr, newly-crowned champion of the British Empire, sailed today for the United States for a chance at the world's heavyweight king, Joe Louis, at New York in September, notwithstanding the reported agreement between the English titlist to meet Max Schmeling in London in a bout billed as a "title" fight.

Louis-Farr Fight Plans Approved

LONDON. (AP)—The Chancery division has dismissed Syd Hull's motion for an injunction restraining Tommy Farr, British empire titleholder, from fighting Joe Louis before meeting Max Schmeling here.

Farr has been matched with Louis in a 15-round heavyweight bout to be held in New York Aug. 26. Previously he had agreed to meet Schmeling in London either late in August or early in September.

An affidavit from Schmeling was read saying he was anxious to meet Farr in September, had been approached by Promoter Mike Jacobs for a possible match with Louis, but had turned it down thinking the fight with Farr definitely was on.

Farr planned to sail for New York today. The court held that Farr had not bound himself not to fight publicly before meeting Schmeling.

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Joe Louis, recently crowned heavyweight boxing champion, will start training at Pompton Lakes, N. J., July 26, for the first defense of his title against Tommy Farr, British empire champion, Promoter Mike Jacobs announced today. The title fight is scheduled for Aug. 26 at the Yankee stadium.

Juggled batting orders, pay big dividends sometimes, and Manager "Doc" Smith juggled his for a winning combination that presented Santa Ana's Stars with a well-earned 8 to 4 upset over Huntington Beach's Southern California champion Oilers on the beach field last night.

National Nightball league standings were twisted in more ways than one by last night's round, which saw Francis Penhall's Westminster Aviators soar to new heights in defeating Orange's Cubs, 14 to 9. But what was more interesting to the Santa Ana Stars—

ANAHEIM UPSET 4-3
San Bernardino's formidable Ponies jumped into the undisputed lead, surrendered by Huntington Beach, when Venn Botts' nine pushed across a winning run in the last of the 12th against Anaheim, 4 to 3, on the San Bernardino field.

On an earned run basis, the score should have been 4 to 2 at Huntington Beach, but the base-hitting ceremonies were mixed with sufficient walks and miscues to make it highly interesting.

THREE IN FIRST
Bent on gaining revenge for 3-0 and 6-0 shutouts inflicted by Huntington Beach, Santa Ana's Smithies piled up three runs off Frank (Chico) Sabella in the first inning, and chased Manager Joe Rodgers' righthanded pride to the showers at the end of the seventh. Elwynn (Fuzzy) Errington was nicked for two bingles and one run in the remaining two periods.

Shortstop Rodgers bobbled Smith's grounder to plant the Santa Ana manager on the pats in the first inning. Fred Wiener sacrificed him to second, and lanky Bob Schwarm rapped a bouncer. Nan Coots lifted a Texas leaguer over shortstop to fill the bases, with one away. Charley Constock the "come through kid," smashed a single to left field, scoring Smith. Outfielder Pete Osborne overthrew third base on the play, enabling Schwarm to score, too. Coots crossed the plate on Tommy Young's single to short.

SOIL SAVING PROGRAM IS OUTLINED

Farmers Urged to File Notice of Plans

Orange county farmers were urged today by John Burnett, secretary of the Agricultural Conservation association, to call or write his office at 622 North Main street, Santa Ana, and notify the association of the eligible practices which will qualify them for a grant under the 1937 agricultural conservation program.

The checking of performance on eligible farms is to start at once. A soil building allowance will be determined for each eligible farm in Orange county. The maximum amount which may be earned for each farm, according to Burnett, is determined by the soil building allowance. The soil building allowance may be considered as a fund, set up for each farm, which can be drawn upon by putting soil building practices into effect. However, if the money is not earned by practices, the farmer does not get it.

HOW TO QUALIFY

Some of the practices which will qualify for payment are as follows:

Soil conservation crops when seeded on cropland—perennial legumes such as alfalfa and ladino clover, biennial legumes such as red, alsike, and mammoth clover, and perennial grasses such as harding, orchard, and brome grass. Mixtures of perennial and biennial legumes and perennial grasses as recommended by the state experiment station and approved by the state committee.

Farmers may get the detailed specifications on soil building and soil conserving practices from the Agricultural Conservation association office, county committeemen, community committeemen, or from the farm advisor's office.

Some of the soil building practices which will qualify for payment are (1) cover and green manure crop, (2) renovation of irrigated orchard lands, (3) addition of organic matter in orchards, (4) windbreaks, (5) establishment of terraces, (6) permanent erosion control, (7) planting of sod pieces, (8) prevention of water erosion and (9) contour cultivation.

Renovation of irrigated orchard lands, establishment of terraces, and perennial weed control must have had prior approval of the county committee or these practices will not qualify.

EXCEPTIONS

No payment will be made for any practice unless the practice is generally considered to be a good farming practice for the locality.

Payments may be withheld if any rotation, cropping system, or other practice is adopted in 1937 which tends to defeat the purpose of the program.

A properly executed signed work sheet showing the cropping and farm practices on the farm must be on file before a payment can be made.

Maitland Wolfe, assistant in the extension service, is cooperating with the conservation office in the Orange county compliance program.

Think It's Hot? It Reached 134 In Death Valley

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Too hot to handle today?

"Tut, tut," says Thomas A. Blair, official observer for the U. S. weather bureau and assistant professor of meteorology at the University of Nebraska, pointing to the plight of citizens of Tripoli. There, on certain dates, he says the thermometer reached 136 degrees.

And if that doesn't chill you, he adds, think of February 9, 1933, and Yellowstone national park. The mercury registered 66 below zero—lowest recorded temperature in the United States.

Blair recalls that a thermometer, left for 19 years near the top of Mount McKinley in Alaska, showed a minimum temperature of 100 when recovered.

With this he contrasts a 134-degree recording in Death Valley, Calif., which he says is the highest on record in the U. S.

This data is contained in "Weather Elements," a book Blair has just written.

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—San Francisco's graft investigation grand jury has recommended resignation of all members of the police commission in its report to Superior Judge James G. Conlon.

The jury suggested establishment of a five man commission to control the police department with one commissioner a full time executive. Members of the jury adopted their report at the conclusion of a long session which ended early today.

BASTILLE DAY ARMY REVIEW

PARIS. (AP)—France put a cross section of her military might on review today before the heads of her own government, representatives of foreign powers and hundreds of thousands of Parisians in a celebration of the 148th anniversary of the fall of the Bastille.

President Albert Lebrun stood in a reviewing stand with King Carol of Rumania, the Sultan of Morocco, commanders of the Yugo-Slav and Rumanian armies and scores of foreign diplomats and military attaches.

Three hundred of the newest bombing and pursuit planes roared overhead while columns of soldiers from every branch of France's fighting forces were paced by tanks and rumbling batteries of artillery.

One of the planes developed motor trouble and came down in the middle of the Seine river. The pilot swam ashore.

The start of the French "Fourth of July" was featured last night by friction between opposing political factions.

'Freedom of Press' Film To Depict History of A. P.

HOLLYWOOD. (AP)—"Freedom of the Press," a film depicting the history of the Associated Press and the part it has played on the development of the free American press will go into production immediately it was announced by David O. Selznick, president of the Selznick International Pictures, Inc.

"The story of the Associated Press has been the procession of world history, the births and deaths of kings, the fury of wars, the lightning strike of catastrophes, historic political battles, and of unsung heroes who got the story, no matter what the cost," Selznick said.

"It is a story yet to be told, which under the title, 'Freedom of the Press,' soon is to take living form on the screen."

Producer Selznick said the motion picture will describe the Associated Press at its beginning in 1848. It will show the growth of the non-profit cooperative association into the largest news-gathering organization in the world. It will be, in effect, a cavalcade of American journalism in all of its romantic and exciting aspects.

"The picture will present a truthful outline of the nature of the Associated Press and its firm development of the principle of unbiased news," Selznick said.

Hitherto unpublished records to authenticate the production will be made available by the Associated Press, of which approximately 1400 newspapers are members.

The Associated Press makes no profit and does not sell its news. It is a news gathering and distributing organization, mutually owned by its member newspapers, and motivated by one purpose only—to provide swift, accurate and fair news reports the world over. This task involves daily effort, directly or indirectly, of 80,000 individuals throughout the world.

Newspapers the world over are members of the Associated Press and the spread of its humming wires feeds thousands of presses at the rate of 240 words a minute.

In step with the march of progress the AP wirephoto now sends pictures over wires with the same speed as news, marking a tremendous forward stride in the work of reporting "things as they are."

Selznick said the date of release of the film will be announced soon.

MADRID HITS ATTACKERS

MADRID. (AP)—From the sky and across the sun-baked plains west of Madrid, Gen. Jose Miaja's combined air and land forces were forging a ring of fire today around a great segment of Generalissimo Francisco Franco's insurgent army of siege.

The apparent strategy of the government offensive, now in its second week and marked by combat on World War scale, was to encircle the insurgents by a curving westward salient, at the same time subjecting those within the oval-shaped trap to fierce frontal attack.

Meanwhile, other divisions of Miaja's troops continued their drive to wipe out insurgent outposts along the Coruna road, extending northwest from Madrid. At least 1900 rebels were wiped out early in the offensive at Oujorna, government sources said.

Aerial operations have been on an almost unprecedented scale. Combat over the Madrid front at times has brought nearly 100 pursuit and bombing planes into action at once. The rival squadrons engaged in no less than eight battles yesterday. Twelve insurgent planes were reported shot down.

MITCHELL AND ADKINSON
'LOCK HORNS'Sparks Fly Over Move
To Shift School Fund

Supervisor John Mitchell locked horns with School Superintendent Ray Adkinson yesterday, with Adkinson getting a bit the best of the deal.

The school superintendent appeared before the supervisors with a request to transfer a small part of the hundreds of thousands of dollars in the county school surplus to the funds of several smaller districts which ran into the red during the past year.

"I don't see why this board should do anything of the kind," Mitchell began.

"The money doesn't belong to the county retorted Adkinson. 'The law says it must be set aside—it's supposed to be frozen by the auditor. Whether it is or not, I don't know.'"

If the supervisors want to let the money rest in the treasury, Adkinson explained, the only thing to do for the affected districts is to register warrants, as is done in many other California counties. That costs 6 per cent, and the warrants must be advertised for payment.

"Well, I want to look this over," maintained Mitchell. "I want to see what these other counties are doing."

And there it was left.

JAPAN SHIP
FLASHES 'SOS'

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—A steamer believed to be the Japanese vessel Senkai Maru No. 1, flashed distress signals early today which were picked up by coast guard and commercial radio stations along the Pacific coast, in Honolulu and Japan.

Mackay radio later announced its station had intercepted a message from a Japanese coastal station at Otsuchi which broadcast the distress was "ended" at 4:57 a. m. (Pacific standard time). The station did not divulge what occasioned the S O S.

The RCA station here reported it intercepted a message which indicated the ship was the Senkai Maru No. 1, a vessel listed as of 2126 net tons with its home port at Kobe.

PRECISE NAVIGATION CONQUERS
OCEAN THAT TRAPPED AMELIA

IN THE EARHART PLANE—Look at this instrument-packed control board in Amelia Earhart's plane—and you'll see what a job it was for only two persons—Miss Earhart and Navigator Fred Noonan—to keep tab on everything. (Note radio sending key at right).

IN AN AIRLINER—There are just as many instruments in the ocean-flying Pan-American clipper but there are a half dozen men to do the tasks Navigator Noonan handled alone. This is the chart room the Pan-American navigator uses for his work.

If Amelia Earhart and her navigator missed their mark in the Pacific why are transoceanic planes of the commercial airlines able to complete their flights safely? Devon Francis, AP aviation editor, talked to pilots, navigators and airline officials about it, and then he wrote this story.

By DEVON E. FRANCIS
AP Aviation Editor

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y.—Periodically, the over-ocean transport navigator tosses overboard a "pineapple," or aluminum bomb. As it breaks on the water far below, he trains his sights on it to determine whether wind is pushing his craft off course.

The reason seemingly for the plight of Miss Earhart and Navigator Fred Noonan is a slight miscalculation as to position in relation to Howland Island, coupled probably with poor visibility.

DOING SIX MEN'S WORK

Noonan had not only to navigate but to act as flight engineer, mechanic, radio operator and probable steward, as well, meanwhile fighting off inevitable fatigue.

Both on the Pacific transports and the transatlantic survey planes those duties are broken down and assigned to half a dozen men.

All hands get ample rest. Precise navigation is the product.

In flying from Lae, New Guinea, to minute Howland Island, Noonan had a multiplicity of duties. A sturdy airplane and patient motors could not erase the mistake of plotting a wrong position on the map.

COMPPLICATED JOB

The same formulae developed in the 14th century by mariners who braved the ocean beyond the sight of land is used today by crews of the big flying boats to chart their terrors.

Today, of course, fliers have multiple navigational aids in their cabins. The ocean transports "shoot" the sun and the stars for bearings, plot their positions by radio triangulation, check their results with dead reckoning and bulwark all their findings with calculations as to "drift."

The RCA station here reported it intercepted a message which indicated the ship was the Senkai Maru No. 1, a vessel listed as of 2126 net tons with its home port at Kobe.

If twins, triplets, "or even quins" arrive after one of these layettes has been purchased, the store will provide an identical layette for each additional surprise arrival, at no extra cost.

BOARD SEEKS
POLIO CASE
SETTLEMENTVote $2500 to Victim
Of 1934 Epidemic

Closing the county hospital polio ward and voting a $2500 settlement for one of the nurses who caught infantile paralysis in the 1934 epidemic, the board of supervisors moved today toward final settlement of all cases.

Closing of the ward, reported by Supervisor Harry Riley, saves the county from $357 to $400 a month, according to his figures. The two nurses who remained there have been taken to Santa Ana and Fullerton.

The county was unsuccessful in a fight to force the stricken nurses back to the county hospital for treatment, and has closed the ward as an economy measure, Riley said.

Mrs. Effie Cagle of Santa Ana, recommended for a $2500 settlement by the state industrial accident commission recently, was granted that amount by the supervisors yesterday afternoon.

Six other cases remain to be completed, supervisors were told. Some will be taken care of by lump sum settlements as in Mrs. Cagle's case, while others who show signs of recovering more rapidly will be paid compensation until they are well.

Plunge to Have

Swimming meets will be held every Saturday at the Santa Ana High school plunge. It was announced today by Blanchard Beatty, director of the pool. Ribbons will be given to winners.

Competition will be divided into three divisions, he said. There will be for children less than 12 years of age, children between the ages of 12 and 15, and all those more than 15 years of age.

Truscott T. Lindsey, recreation project director, also announced the schedule for the various recreation centers to attend the plunge for swimming instruction. It is as follows: Tuesdays, Willard and Lincoln schools; Thursdays, Lathrop and Edison; Saturdays, Franklin and Roosevelt. The classes will be held from 10 a. m. to noon.

Those satisfactorily passing life-saving and swimming examinations will be given emblems and buttons.

ROTARY HEARS
ABOUT SEX
HORMONESUse in Treatment Of Unusual Cases Told

How medical science is putting sex hormones to work was explained to members of the Rotary club yesterday by Dr. Merrill W. Hollingsworth, Santa Ana physician, and newly elected president of the Southern California Medical association.

Explaining that both male and female sex hormones are present in all human bodies, Dr. Hollingsworth told of the way the tiny organisms are being used to treat adolescent acne, in "straightening out" certain sexual perversion cases and in determining pregnancy.

Medical science, Dr. Hollingsworth said, has recently developed standard methods of measuring the proportion of the two different types of hormones in a body.

Jack Brigham, president of the new Placentia Rotary club, spoke briefly on his club's activities.

Two vocal selections by Bob Brown completed the meeting's program which was arranged by Wendell Finley.

Long Sentence
Tells Water
Bond Proposal

Conscientious voters were wrestling today with a 379-word sentence.

It takes that many words to give an outline of the bond proposal which will be submitted to voters July 27, incurring a county flood control district obligation of $2,500,000 which will bring $15,000,000 in dams and other projects.

The 379-word sentence appeared on sample ballots, mailed Monday by County Clerk Joe Backs. Bond issue propositions always have to be one sentence, no matter how long. Because they must start out "Shall the . . ." and must end with a question mark.

Leaving no room for periods.

Shedding Coat
Costs Mack $22

A considerable pick-pocket last night took advantage of a man shedding his coat for the sake of comfort and relieved the garment of a $22 burden.

The coat, with billfold in pocket, was left by R. C. Mack, 1413 North Main street, in his car while he went into the house at 408 East Myrtle street.

The thief, in his absence, opened the wallet, took out four $5 bills and two $1 bills and then replaced the billfold where he had found it.

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Embarrassed, she said, by her husband's snoring in the presence of guests, Mrs. John K. Mohr won a divorce in superior court here.

"He would fall asleep in front of people and snore," she explained. "It happened so often I hesitated to ask people to come to the home." The suit was not contested.

She's Sleuth

Henrietta Kosciolski, kitchen girl in a Cleveland hotel, whose identification of Robert Irwin, confessed slayer in the Gedeon murders, led to his eventual arrest. She is shown as she arrived in New York to collect $1000 reward from a detective magazine.

The Home-Owned Business association today voted unanimous support to the $2,500,000 Orange county water bond issue. The group met for breakfast at Dangler's cafe, where between 50 and 60 members gave their approval to the project for flood control and water conservation.

J. C. Metzgar, secretary-manager of the association, presented Harry Day of Los Angeles as speaker. Day is manager of the National Community Builders. He presented a plan to advertise independent business through a contest. The plan is being considered by the local group.

COSTA MESA
MAN ADMITS
ASSAULTVictim, 11, Sent To County Hospital

Admittedly guilty of a savage criminal assault on an 11-year-old Huntington Beach girl, Lorden Espinosa, Costa Mesa Mexican was under a one to 50-year sentence to San Quentin penitentiary today.

Espinosa appeared unexpectedly yesterday afternoon in Superior Judge James L. Allen's court, pleaded guilty to the felony charge, and waived time for pronouncement of judgment. Judge Allen sentenced him immediately to San Quentin. The law provides a term of from one to 50 years for such an offense.

Espinosa was accused by Deputy District Attorney Harold McCabe of overtaking the girl, an eighth-grade student, despite the fact that she was only 11 years old, on the beach July 4, assaulting her so violently that she was taken to the county hospital for surgical treatment.

S. M. City Hall
Rejected by PWA

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Public Works administration officials said today the city of Santa Monica's application for funds for a city hall project probably can not be granted "because the project does not meet requirements specified by congress" in voting a two-year continuance of PWA.

They explained that although the project has been approved by PWA's examining divisions, it is in a classification for which no funds probably will be available after projects specified by congress receive allotments. These include, for instance, projects for which municipalities have voted bonds.

Santa Monica asked PWA for a grant of $99,700 as the federal contribution towards a building estimated to cost $352,860.

Evening Fete Honors Paul Dinsmores

Flags and Chandlers Are Gracious Hosts In Lovely Home

Delightful ease and simplicity mingled with friendly, gracious hospitality during yesterday's twilight hours when Mr. and Mrs. Ray S. Chandler and Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Flagg held open house in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dinsmore, newcomers to Santa Ana society.

No lovelier setting for so lavish an affair could be envisioned than the beautiful new home of Mr. and Mrs. Chandler at 1911 Heliotrope Drive. Extremely moderate in tone and design, it is nevertheless warm and inviting, because of the soft, neutral hues of grey and beige that have been combined with its smart ultra-simplicity.

Flowers in brilliant colors emphasized each lovely spot throughout the house. A great mass of hydrangeas, ranging from soft pink to blue, filled the graceful curve of the stair well, and flaming gladioli and zinnias were used in the drawing room. Jewel-toned petunias in deep purple-blue emphasized the soft petunia-coloring of the dining room, and fragrant all-white blossoms were used upstairs.

In the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. Flagg, Mr. and Mrs. Chandler, Mr. and Mrs. Dinsmore, and Mrs. James Irvine. The two hostesses were striking in their graceful hostess-gowns, Mrs. Flagg's auburn hair being offset by a frock of electric blue, while Mrs. Chandler wore an exquisite gown of filmy black net embroidered in pink carnations. Both had received lovely bouquets of gardenias from their honor guests, which added to the effect of their costumes.

Mrs. Dinsmore received in a smartly designed grey frock, with matching large hat, and Mrs. Irvine chose a flowered gown of vivid blue with complementary picture hat.

A sextet of younger misses and matrons assisted in the courteous greetings to the lovely new home, in serving trays of cocktails and hors d'oeuvres, and in mingling with guests who later found their way into the beautiful garden that extends from the flower-bordered patio with its comfortable swings and porch furniture.

In this group were the daughters of the hostesses, Mrs. Arthur Derby (Kay Chandler), smart in a long gown of navy blue; Mrs. J. Riley Huber (Margaret Flagg), who, like her mother, chose lovely blue to offset her auburn hair; and Miss Jimmie Flagg, in striking black organdy, with contrasting jacket. Serving with them were Miss Margaret Ellen Sawyer, wearing a black sheer with brief white organdy coat; Mrs. Fred Chapman in vivid ruby, and Mrs. Gretha Dale in an effective black and white print. Assisting the hosts in their friendly duties were the two sons-in-law, Arthur Derby and J. Riley Huber.

Welcomed at the charming affair were the Paul Dinsmores, Mrs. James Irvine, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lewis of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. George Briggs, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Timmons, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Holmes, Mrs. Marguerite Borg-Tolles, Mrs. Marguerite Borgmeyer, Mrs. Lillian Johnston-Haddon, Richard Winkler, and the Messrs. and Mesdames Mortimer Plum, Rex Kennedy, Z. B. West, Herbert Miller, B. J. MacMullen, Mark Lacy, Frank Sawyer, Lawrence Coffing, H. T. Dunning, Howard Rapp, Baxter Jovanet of Los Angeles, Leonard G. Swales, Emrys D. White, William Thornton White, Jr.

The Messrs. and Mesdames Lloyd Chenoweth, A. I. Mellen-thin, Frank Drumm, Fred Chapman, Fred Forgy, Hugh Lowe, Richard Emison, Horace Stevens, Edward Hall, Dubbas Tubbs, James B. Tucker, Lester Tubbs, Dr. and Mrs. Claude Oewiler, Dr. and Mrs. Milton McMurray, Dr. and Mrs. John Ball, Dr. and Mrs. Dexter Ball, Dr. and Mrs. D. A. Harwood, Mrs. Gretha Dale, and Wayne Stewart.

GUESTS TO BE WELCOME AT COUNTRY CLUB

Emphasizing the fact that members of the Santa Ana Country club may bring guests to the monthly evening card party this Friday evening without extra charge, the committee for the affair is planning a delightful evening.

Superintending arrangements for prizes, receiving, and refreshments are members of the standing committee for the year, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Flagg, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Emison, and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Osterman, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Farnsworth, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur May, and Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Davis.

CIRCLE MEETS THURSDAY

TRANSPARENCY IS ALLURING

Sheer black means summer smartness. One example of its chic is designed of marquisette finished at the square neckline with a frame of white lace. Black ribbon trims the open-crowned white cartwheel hat. The only touch of color in the ensemble appears in the coral tinted finger nails, showing through the open mesh black gloves.

YOUNG COUPLE TAKE VOWS AT WEDDING CHAPEL

Miss Barbara Helen Withers became the bride of Odell Grover Ridings of Temple City Monday night at a quiet ceremony performed by the Rev. Earl Bloss in the moonlight of the Santa Ana Wedding Chapel.

The bride was gowning in a floor-length frock of peach colored satin, with a matching bolero jacket and carried a bouquet of pink sweet peas. Her only attendant was her mother, Mrs. Lloyd Withers, who wore a yellow crepe dress with a gardenia corsage.

Cecil L. McLeod of Santa Ana assisted the bridegroom as best man. About 15 people, members of the immediate families of the newlyweds, were present.

The young couple plans to make their home at 121 Clive street, Anaheim, where the groom is employed.

BEACH HOME IS SETTING FOR PICNIC PARTY

Graciously stepping into the hostess role which Mrs. E. G. Summers was unable to fill because of illness, her daughter, Mrs. Richard Emison, yesterday received a little group of friends gathered to meet Mrs. George Hogan, district deputy president of the Three Arches beach home of the Summerers.

The easterners are house guests of Mrs. Charles Nalle and her mother, Mrs. Jennie Crawford. A delightful luncheon was served in the little park which adjoins the beautiful Three Arches beach home of the Summerers. Younger members of the party enjoyed a swim in the nearby ocean, while the older ladies enjoyed pleasant conversation.

In the group were the three honor guests, the two children of Mrs. Hogan, Jr., Mrs. Nalle, Mrs. Crawford, Miss Jane Nalle, Mrs. T. T. Clem, Mrs. Robert Cantrell of Las Vegas, Miss Patricia Emison, and Mrs. Richard Emison.

By JACQUELINE HUNT
Her figure, the way she dresses and the way she carries herself can do more to make a woman look young or old, than her face, hair or the mold of her features.

As years pass a woman normally puts on weight. In moderation this is good, for as a woman loses the loose-jointed, willowy grace of youth, she needs padding to prevent harsh, angular body lines. A thin cushion of fat is also a splendid defense against facial lines and wrinkles, and it keeps the skin moist, soft and smooth.

Watch that fat, however. See that it doesn't pile up around your diaphragm, thighs, upper arms or under your chin. Check up on your weight weekly. Confer with your family doctor occasionally. When your weight goes up three or four pounds above your normal figure, watch your diet carefully until the surplus vanishes.

Control your posture. Simple exercises will keep your posture graceful and will help govern your weight, eliminating unsightly bulges.

Take care of your feet. Increased weight adds to the strain on your arches. You may need a new kind of shoe, or special foot exercises. Attention of an orthopedic specialist may help.

If it is possible, take a nap every day or plan your day's schedule to include a fifteen-minute relaxation period after lunch.

Many business women plan a half hour's nap as soon as they get home from the office. Even a busy homemaker can arrange her day's schedule with time for rest and fresh make-up before she calls her family to the dinner table.

Tastefully chosen clothes and perfect grooming will make you look younger than you actually are. Have a daily bath, use a deodorant or an anti-perspirant daily and be sure your clothing is always freshly cleaned or laundered, and that your fingernail touches are immaculate. Don't use white collars, cuffs and gloves if you can't keep them clean.

I. T. U. AUXILIARY MEETS IN THRASHER HOME

The Orange Park Acres home of Mrs. Carl Thrasher was the setting last night for the monthly meeting of the women's auxiliary to the International Typographical union. Mrs. Charles Claytor assisted as co-hostess.

During a business meeting conducted by Mrs. J. W. Jones, Mrs. J. A. May was elected and installed as secretary to replace Mrs. J. Parkinson who resigned the post. Members decided to hold their business and social meetings on Tuesdays rather than on Mondays in the future.

The next meeting of the auxiliary will be held Aug. 10 in the home of Mrs. Grville Waters with Mrs. E. Y. Taylor as co-hostess. July 27 members will meet for a pot-luck dinner in Anaheim park.

Members present included the Mesdames J. W. Jones, C. A. Rousseau, J. A. Mathews, Carl Thrasher, Grville Waters, Charles Claytor, Claude Marvin, E. W. Ellis, J. Parkinson and Carl Fisher. Mrs. Marvin announced last night she would leave the auxiliary for a year while she is on an extended trip.

Soured Milk Has Plenty Of Uses

By JUDITH WILSON
Hot weather means more sour milk, but this is no calamity. In fact it may be a blessing in disguise. Your milk may not serve as you intended it, but it should never be thrown away. It can be the basis of delicious, tasty foods made more pleasing by the addition of spices.

Hot biscuits, muffins, gingerbread and popovers suggest one use of using sour milk or cream. Or it can be converted into the ever popular cottage cheese — or pot cheese, as it is also known.

To make it, let the milk become quite thick, warm it slightly, then pour into a cornucopia shaped pan and make of a double thickness of cheese cloth. Hang the pan up and let the liquid drain for 24 hours. Season the remaining cheese with salt, pepper or caraway seed or leave it unseasoned and butter with sweet cream. With bread and butter and stewed fruit it makes a light, pleasing supper dish.

CHEESE CAKE

Roll 12 graham crackers into fine crumbs and add to them 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon and 1 tablespoon melted butter. Press this mixture evenly on the bottom of a spring form mold, reserving a few crumbs to sprinkle on top of the cake. Bake this shell 8 minutes in a hot oven, remove and cool.

Beat 5 egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Add 1 1/2 cups sugar gradually, beating after each addition. Add 1 cup cream or top milk and 1 1/2 pounds fairly dry cottage cheese that has been forced through a fine sieve. In another bowl mix 1/4 cup flour, a pinch of salt and 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg and add to the egg mixture. Beat the whites of the eggs until very stiff and fold into the egg mixture with 1/2 teaspoon vanilla and 1 teaspoon lemon extract.

Pour into the lined mold and bake about 1 1/2 hours in a slow oven. Cool before removing from the pan.

SOUR CREAM RAISIN PIE

Combine 2 eggs, slightly beaten, and 1 cup sugar and beat until well mixed. Gradually stir in 1 cup sour cream. Combine 1 tablespoon flour, 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg and 1/2 teaspoon each of nutmeg and cinnamon and mix with 1 cup chopped seeded raisins and 1/2 cup chopped butternuts. Combine with the first mixture. Pour into an ungreased pie shell and bake in a hot oven for 15 minutes. Then decrease the heat to moderate and bake 30 minutes longer, or until a knife inserted comes out clean. This makes 1 9-inch pie.

MARY PORTER'S SUCCESSOR IS NAMED

Appointment of Miss Marjorie McCulloch of Pasadena to the Girl Reserve secretaryship of Santa Ana was announced today by Mrs. Mary Howard, secretary of the local Y. W. C. A. who will be Miss McCulloch's immediate superior.

Miss McCulloch succeeds Miss Mary Porter, who, after two years in Santa Ana, resigned in order to attend to her duties at the University of California. As in the case of her predecessor, the new secretary was appointed through the leadership division of the personnel department of the national Y board at New York City.

Mary Stoddard Wife Is Worried About Other Women Who Flirt With Her Husband

It seems to be open season on husbands—Our trusty column fans have administered a sound beating to the modern cave man mate who practices his pugilistic tendencies on his wife. Scarcely has the gong sounded in this lively verbal conflict when another wife steps to the fore, dragging her flirting partner up into the ring for a "trimming." What this "heartick" wife who writes the following letter needs is to get a little of the fighting spirit. I feel sure our readers will come to her assistance. How about it, wives? Read "Mrs. Worried's" letter and then let us have your "cure."

Blood Vessels Cause Birthmarks

By C. N. CHRISMAN, M. D.

A birthmark (nevus vasculosus) is caused by an increase in the number and size of the blood vessels in the deeper layers of the skin of a certain area. It appears at or shortly after birth, may increase in size for a short time and then become stationary. The number and size of the vessels determine the color. When the very small capillaries are increased the mark is a bright red, but if the veins are the cause they may be a deep purple or brownish color.

Birthmarks appear most often on the face, neck, scalp and arms but may come on any portion of the body. Occasionally they have covered almost all of the skin surface, including the inside of the mouth. They may be round or irregular in shape; smooth and level with the skin surface or raised to a varying extent.

Frequently, they increase in size and color, as the amount of blood is increased by emotion, anger or pleasure, just the same as in blushing or flushing. Sometimes pressure may cause them to fade. They are more common in girls than boys.

The real cause of birthmarks is not known. The common theory is that they are caused by fright or by impressions of the mother before the child's birth, though often supported by evidence, is probably wrong. It is a coincidence rather than a result. I have seen many birthmarks and many women have told me that they were sure their baby would be marked. Usually no marks result and if they do there is no resemblance to the mark the mothers describe.

One correspondent writes that her daughter has a birthmark on her thigh. If it is not large or placed so as to be readily irritated, I should advise letting it alone. Small birthmarks can be removed by the use of a knife or cautery and the denuded surface covered by skin grafting. A very successful method is by electrolysis.

Freezing with carbon-dioxide snow, if carefully performed, is good. Radium and X-ray treatment are of great value in relieving all forms of this distress.

Hollywood

SIGHTS and SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD.—Only member of Fred Waring's swing gang not under contract to the maestro was Johnny "Scat" Davis. . . . Johnny dined with the rest in "Varsity Show" and Warner Bros. adjusted his contract's existence. . . . He'd been with Waring five years, didn't want a contract. . . . But being a movie comedian was different. . . .

Looks like an inter-studio contest to see who'll pay the most—in print, at least—for a story property. . . . "Room Service" went to Warner's for a reported $250,000. . . . Columbia was supposed to have paid $200,000 for "You Can't Take It With You." . . . Goldwyn shied out $165,000 for "Dead End" with adaptation costs running the ante around $205,000. . . . There's a mark for a playwright to shoot at: to be first to sell out for a million. . . . Once upon a time Anita Loos got $15 per scenario. . . . and thought she was making money, too. . . .

Paul Guilfoyle, after seeing a movie, found a strange young woman in his car. . . . He demanded to be taken home. . . . He did. . . . But drove through Westwood to pick up Mrs. Guilfoyle first. . . .

CAUSE FOR GROANS.—After catching the last half of "That Man's Here Again" at a preview, I see why Hugh Herbert groaned at stardom in it. . . . He's pleased about "Singing Marine," however. . . . I think because he gets to play himself and his own sister in it. . . .

Ginger and Mrs. Rogers are living in their new home while the carpenters finish building it. . . . They even had a dinner party, for Harriet Hilliard and Ozzie Nelson. . . . Ginger sleeps in an oversized bed. . . . so big, says Mrs. Rogers, that she's morning a couple of carpenters went in her room, fixed some gadgets, and went out again without ever noticing that Ginger was asleep somewhere in the broad expanse. . . .

BEETROUBLE.—This is the tale of Limey Plews, the prop man. He swears it's true. "The Perfect Specimen" was on location at Flintridge, near Pasadena. Joan Blondell and Errol Flynn were supposed to stroll along a woodland path. Joan was to stop and pick a bunch of wildflowers. . . .

Seems Michael Curtiz, directing, decided there should be some bees buzzing around the flowers. Limey procured a hive. With foresight and solicitude for his players, Limey removed all the stingers before turning the bees loose to graze. . . . Unfortunately, the sequence was not quite completed at day's end. Limey gave the bees a call back for nine the next a. m. . . . During the night, however, two non-union bees got into the hive and next morning they stung Flynn. . . .

Under rigid questioning Limey admits he did exaggerate a bit. He says that actually only one non-union bee was involved. . . . Fred Astaire blushes when fans ask him for autographs. Real, crimson-red blushes. Just from embarrassment. He'll sign 'em but doesn't see why the fans want 'em. Sometimes the fan is as embarrassed as he is, and then it's a blushing contest. . . .

Ora, 18, and Robert, 16, daughter and son of Victor Moore, made their film debuts with their father in "Missus America." . . . William Demarest, who plays tough mugs in the movies, makes interior decorating his hobby. . . .

KING OF KINGS COMING HERE

The film was first shown in New York at the Gaiety theater April 17, 1927—just a little more than 10 years ago.

Warner Baxter Paid $265,454

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Hollywood listed Warner Baxter, Gary Cooper and George Raft today among its highest paid actors.

A report from the twentieth Century-Fox film corporation to the securities commission disclosed Warner Baxter topped its payroll with $264,384 last year.

Paramount reported $265,454 for Cooper and $202,666 for Raft. Baxter's salary is the highest listed from Hollywood so far for 1936, but some of the large companies have not reported.

Spencer Tracy, Lionel Barrymore and Freddie Bartholomew appear tonight at the West Coast in Rudyard Kipling's immortal saga of the sea, "Captains Courageous." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's mighty successor to "Mutiny on the Bounty." Owing to length of feature and not to detract from the story and action of this great picture, a program of specially selected short subjects has been provided for the companion entertainment.

One thing has become apparent this past week and a half of conducting the Gaines department while he fishes. The thing which has become apparent is that the ideal of a column should be every week and a half.

Because 'way last week, before a myriad of correspondents began calling in to ask where their stories had gone, there was a column turned out and ready to be put in type. Not a good column, but it had its points. Now the blamed thing's lost.

Maybe a few things can be remembered, though. And maybe there will be a column for the printers to fool with, come two bells, 9 p. m.

In the first place a laurel wreath to some people. To Frank Rospaw, Neil Murbarger, Vernon Beck, and the mysterious Aunt Petunia, whose opuses have already appeared in this department, a hearty thankee for filling in and doing a good job of it. To the small man with the big type-writer, Skinny Skirvin, a double thankee for writing some and getting the other folks to do their bit. And to Clyde Simmons of the Tustin News, whose ramblings will all other things being equal, appear tomorrow, a cheer. Simmons should be dessert.

Things have been collecting in the county department's desk.

For instance there is the plaintive wail, not unlike that of the tired mouse, of Stan Wilson of Orange. Seems Brick said in one paragraph that Stan fell in love, and followed it in the next paragraph with the fact that Stan fell in love with a boat.

But Mrs. Wilson didn't read that far. The next day, writes the harassed Mr. Wilson, was Independence day, and she almost did something about it.

Then there is the new paper at San Clemente, which starts right out by smearing a precedent all over the place.

In its masthead runs a paragraph which got lost along with the original column last week. Its idea, however, is that "all notices of meetings or events at which a collection is taken or admission charged will be charged for at our regular rates. Other events will be run as news."

The newspaper's dream, says the office wag. But it's worth a look to see how far it gets, anyway. Think of what would happen on a daily paper if that rule were enforced. The advertising staff would have to get busy before the sports editor could use a story about the World Series, for instance. And all sorts of other things.

There are various other notes lying around in the desk, some of them decipherable and others not so, which would make material for a column, or a part thereof.

Since the "Did You See?" department was discontinued on page one, a swell item for that column slithered in from Laguna Beach. Here 'tis:

"City Attorney Milburn Harvey at Laguna's council meeting, sartorially resplendent in lemon-yellow, 'movie-style' pajama shirt, peach-colored slacks, and spottish ice-cream sport coat."

And that is a colorful picture. Especially since Milburn is a United States commissioner, which amounts to something like a judge.

There's more stuff in the desk. But it can wait. Because there is a poem, flung this way by Betty Guild. The poem doesn't make an awful lot of sense, but is amusing.

Here, if you can take it, is the poem.

My lover him has gone away—
My lover him has gone to stay.
He can't come to I—
He can't go to he—
It can never was.
Don't it awful?

New Beach Bank Ready Sept. 1

NEWPORT-BALBOA. — Completion of the new $12,000 Bank of America building here has been set at Sept. 1, it was announced today.

The bank, being built on West Central avenue in Newport, has already had its reinforced concrete vault poured, and the framework has been going up this week.

W. E. Allen, a Long Beach contractor, and H. L. Brittain are in charge of the work.

Present specifications call for the vault to have a massive torch-proof steel door. The building will be finished in stucco, with modern low-type banking fixtures.

The bank, when completed, will have four tellers' windows, a public lobby, booths for users of the safe deposit vaults and a parking lot in the rear. The services of this branch of Bank of America will augment the branch now operating in Balboa.

TAX BOOST ELECTION EXPECTED AT NEWPORT-BALBOA

SEE $12,000 IN REVENUE

Petitions Go Out For Election Call

NEWPORT-BALBOA. — City officials of this region were in earnest when they considered a 200 to 300 per cent tax rate boost last week. In council meeting this week petitions for an election on the measure were taken out, it was announced by City Clerk Frank Rinehart, calling for them to be placed on the general election next April.

The boost being petitioned for will, if passed by the voters, mean a boost of 200 per cent in the library fund and a raise of 300 per cent in the park fund. The proposed raise would levy a library tax of six cents instead of three cents, as it is now, and would increase the park tax from three to ten cents.

According to Rinehart this will mean about $12,000 in new revenue for the city. It is estimated that the park boost will net $8,500, while the library increase is slated to fatten the city's coffers to the tune of $3,500.

Chamberlain has a studio in Hermosa Beach, being formerly connected with Laguna gallery work. Mrs. Peabody is a prominent local painter and sculptress. Poland is widely known as a fine arts lecturer, having appeared before many women's clubs and other organizations recently to give a descriptive account of European gallery tours.

The jury will meet within two weeks, prior to the Festival of Arts July 31 to Aug. 7, so that the show may be ready for Festival visitors on July 28. Frederick Schwankovsky, Thomas Craig, Clarence Hinkle, Karl Yens, William A. Griffith comprise the acceptance committee for all entrants in the exhibit.

Schauer, head of a committee on the No. 3 water district, recommended against extension of the district to the outside area at present unless property owners want to put up money to pay for the cost of extending the service, and in that case recommended that a 330-foot area on each side of affected streets be included. A copy of the recommendations will be sent to the board of supervisors.

Knapp, chairman of a committee to talk with the Pacific Electric railway relative to enlargement of culverts under the P. E. tracks which now hold back flood waters, said railway officials claimed to have written a letter explaining their stand. No one here, however, has received any such letter.

LIGHT TOURNEY ENTRIES IN

NEWPORT-BALBOA. — Southern entrants in the twenty-ninth annual Tournament of Lights are today pouring into the office of the chamber of commerce.

In addition to San Pedro and Long Beach, whose entries have already been received, at least a half dozen other cities have indicated they will enter the colorful nocturnal event.

Santa Ana, under the guidance of her chamber of commerce, is making elaborate plans for the event. Oliver Lindemeyer has been named as chairman of the committee, it was announced.

Bill Gallienne, secretary of the Huntington Beach chamber, has indicated that oil center will participate.

Pasadena, remaining undecided whether to use a barge, a yacht, or a float, nevertheless has decided to enter.

Meanwhile Anaheim, San Diego, and Redlands all have the matter before their respective city councils, and it is expected that their entry blanks will be received soon.

The Beverly Hills junior chamber of commerce will take over that city's entry, and is making great plans for the float, according to J. A. Beck, permanent chairman of the Tournament of Lights committee.

STORE, PWA IRK BEACH

HUNTINGTON BEACH. — The city council today had viewed with alarm two situations, and was getting ready to see what could be done.

One is the fact that the city's application for a WPA project for a municipal recreation hall on the ocean front is still floundering somewhere in the red tape department.

The other is that someone is running a grocery store at the local trailer camp, and the other merchants don't like the idea.

Committees were appointed in both cases. Boxie Huston and M. M. Callen are to call on Hamilton I. Cotton of San Clemente, Democratic highway engineer, to see what can be done about the recreation hall, and Bob de Britton, Vic Perry, and Sol White are to look into the grocery situation and report back to the council.

BAILEY TEAM BENEFIT. SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO. — The Capistrano night club gave a benefit barbecue at the Plaza de Prorrotto in the State park at San Clemente on Sunday. George Stevens, manager of the team, states that more than three hundred persons attended the affair but that it will not be able to determine the financial benefit to the club for several days.

When Patty Lou Palmer, stenographer in the National Insurance Company, became engaged to the wealthy Dan Northcutt, she makes an enemy of Mardell Gray, the beautiful but hard-boiled office manager, who has set her cap for Dale. He is the son of the head of the Northeast Construction Company, which is expected to give National the business of underwriting the bond for a big dam project. Mardell changes National's bid for the business, so that it goes to a rival company, then plants evidence incriminating Patty Lou as the "traitor." When Chet Brownell, bond writer for National, who was counting desperately on getting the business, commits suicide, his fiancée, Alice Carr, hysterically blames Patty Lou. Dale, hearing of all this as he is rushing out of town on urgent business, is unable to help Patty Lou, but sees Mardell and makes her promise to help Patty Lou. Instead, Mardell fires her and tells her Dale is through with her. The same day, her grandmother, her only living relative, dies.

MRS. CARLSON brought a long envelope. Patty Lou opened it with shaking fingers. Mrs. Carlson murmured, as she took out a check for two weeks salary. Her eyes raced over the brief, typed note:

Dear Miss Palmer:

I have just learned of your grandmother's death and want to extend sympathy.

On thinking things over, I am not at all satisfied with my first conclusion about recent occurrences in our office, and sometimes feel you were treated unjustly. I am especially displeased with Miss Gray's action in not giving you the usual two weeks' pay.

Drop in to see me when you are better.

Yours very truly,

HAROLD BLOUNT.

"Things will come out all right," Mrs. Carlson declared.

But Patty Lou didn't agree. Dale didn't believe in her. That was what mattered.

She gave the check to Mrs. Carlson.

"Please take it as a small payment for everything you have done," she urged. "As soon as I can get another job, I'll have more for you."

Mrs. Carlson thought it best to humor her.

"All right," she agreed. "Now let's forget tomorrow's difficulties and concentrate on what is to be done today. Don't you remember what Granny always said: 'By doing a good job on the things before you, the things that worry you will work themselves out in good shape?'"

Patty Lou's smile wavered. "Dear Granny I'm glad she never knew."

"Yes. Now, you see how many notes you can write while I make a pudding for supper. Got to put some flesh on those bones of yours."

PATTY LOU wrote for half an hour before she realized how tired it made her. Odd, how little she could do.

She heard a knock on the front door, then Mrs. Carlson's voice. "Yes, let's be better. Be glad to see you."

The next minute, Mrs. Carlson came in followed by—Patty Lou couldn't believe it—Alice Carr!

Alice looked thin and all the joy of living seemed erased from her pale face. Her eyes were unnaturally bright as they fastened on Patty Lou.

"I've come," she said, without preamble. "To learn the truth."

BRITISH SHIP SEIZED AT SANTANDER

Merchantmen Warned Not to Take Chances

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Alfred Duff Cooper, first lord of the admiralty, announced to the house of commons that a British ship was captured today while attempting to enter the Spanish government port of Santander, current object of the Spanish insurgent army's northern campaign.

Duff Cooper declined to give details or to name the ship.

He was replying to opposition questions concerning the government's advisory warning to British merchantmen not to enter Santander because of the danger of capture.

"It may interest the house to know," Duff Cooper asserted, "that a British ship was captured while attempting to enter Santander this morning."

Labour leader Clement R. Attlee had argued that numerous ships had been visiting Santander without molestation and that the government's warning was discriminatory in favor of insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

Lloyd's had no record of the capture.

The admiralty office said only that the British steamer Molton from London was stopped inside Spanish territorial waters today by the insurgent cruiser Almirante Cervera which fired two warning shots. The Molton then proceeded, under direction of the Almirante Cervera.

WORKER FALLS TO DEATH

Falling to the pavement from a high truckload of oranges, William Wilhelm, 50, an employee of the P. J. Weisel, Inc., ranch at La Habra, today sustained injuries that were soon followed by death.

Wilhelm fell from the truck as it rounded a curve near the ranch. His head struck against the hard roadway. Medical aid and an ambulance were summoned, but the orange worker died before he could be taken to a hospital.

The body was taken to the McAuley and Sutters Funeral home in Fullerton. Coroner Earl Abbey announced that an inquest will be held.

Jury Sees Scene Of Auto Death

A superior court jury traveled to Dana Villa today to inspect the scene of an accident April 22 in which James J. Johns of Los Angeles was killed.

The jury is hearing a negligent homicide case against Ansel G. Woods of Los Angeles, driver of a car which crashed into an oil truck on the coast highway, killing Johns, a passenger.

Woods testified late yesterday that although he had been drinking, he was not intoxicated.

New York Stocks

By VICTOR EUBANK

NEW YORK, (AP)—Last hour profit selling nipped a stock market rally in the bud today, with early gains heavily pared or erased.

Even the steel shares, which had assumed leadership of the upward climb, slipped as offerings accumulated. Utilities were resistant, but the rails, after accumulating modest gains, tilted backward at the finish.

Traders found the day's news budget satisfactory but buyers apparently retired as specific levels were reached and the list drifted without definite trends.

Trading was active in the early hours, then sloped off only to pick up again toward the close. Transfers were about 1,000,000 shares.

107 Local Scouts Now at RoKiLi

A total of 107 Boy Scouts from Orange county are at Camp Rokili in the San Bernardino mountains, figures showed today.

The boys left Monday and will be there for a week. They will return to their homes, next Monday, July 19.

Santa Ana has the largest representation at camp, the figures showed, with 46. Huntington Beach is second with 30, while Fullerton is third with 12. Newport-Balboa sent four, Cypress, eight; Garden Grove, five; and one each from Alhambra and Monrovia.

Despite the low purchasing power of its masses, India buys more American tooth paste than any other foreign country.

FIND BODY OF SEA VICTIM

The body of Frederick Bjornsen, 24-year-old Los Angeles man, who disappeared in the sea at Laguna Beach while making a heroic attempt to save the life of a girl swimmer July 2, today was floated to shore.

Phillip Sinclair of Alhambra saw the body and attempted to reach it, but a great wave washed the drowned swimmer to the sand before he could reach it. Bjornsen was drowned while attempting to give aid to Miss Helen Clark, who was caught in a rip-tide.

The body was taken to Los Angeles.

Newcomb Burglary Loss Total Jumps

After a second check-up, Fred Newcomb of Tustin, whose home was burglarized Monday night, found that more property than first reported had been stolen, bringing the total loss to well over $100.

Newcomb told the sheriff's office today that a typewriter, a camera, suit of clothes, woman's coat, string of cultured pearls and a dress shirt were missing.

Deputy Sheriff Bob Steinberger, investigating the case, found that entrance had been made by fitting a key in the front door. The lock on the door showed evidence of filings.

A floating excavator in the Umfolosi river, Zululand, frequently "digs up" crocodiles.

No Beer at Lunch For Yanks Men

NEW YORK. (AP)—United States customs officials who examine baggage of incoming steamship passengers sat down to "temperance luncheons" today.

A new ruling of William H. McReynolds, administrative secretary to the secretary of the treasury, forbids them to drink a glass of beer during their lunch hour, so that passengers will not be annoyed by "bad breaths."

Miss Anatomy Bares Affairs Of The Heart

THE NERVE OF THE GUY! Imagine! Taking her stomach out right in front of the cameraman! She looks mad enough to take a poke at her attendant but he's safe—Miss Anatomy's only a robot who lives in a New York museum.

NEW YORK.—If you have a feeling your heart's not in the right place, there's an easy way to check up on it.

Miss Anatomy, latest addition to the Museum of Science and Industry in New York, will let you extract her heart from the proper spot, for a comparative study.

And you may be sure hers is located just where it should be for the lady was created under the watchful eye of a corps of German physicians and surgeons.

NOTHING'S PRIVATE

She's a German girl, standing five feet six inches in her bare feet. Sympathetic spectators note a frightened look in her soft brown eyes when the curtains are pulled and spotlights pour relentlessly down on her. She seems to have a debonair slouch, too, but that illusion is created by her intricate hinging.

She's very patient about it all when the museum demonstrator starts taking her part. He has a regular routine, taking out her muscles first, then the internal organs beneath—heart

Price Control, and What Kind?

When President Roosevelt moved into the White House in 1932 he told the nation it would be his policy, whenever any pressing problem arose, to "do something" about it.

We want to know what he is going to do about the problem of rising prices.

Recent jumps in living costs have brought unhappiness to many workers who are seeing the prices moving up as fast or faster than the pay scale.

Some new experiment in price control may become imperative if the trouble is to be remedied.

This is a ticklish topic, however. A mere warning from F.D.R. will do no good. Nor can financial juggling turn the trick. And if there is direct price fixing as in 1918, it will be no more welcome.

Other measures suggested are stiffening the anti-trust laws, tariff slashes, use of the taxing power to prevent excessive profits, and federal encouragement of consumer's cooperatives.

Can the Roosevelt administration formulate a policy that will hold down prices without throwing the economic system out of joint somewhere else?

Who said movie marriages don't last? Mae West has been married 26 years and has had only one spat with her husband.

Alien 'Purge' of WPA Coming at Last

Those days may soon be gone forever when generous Uncle Sam takes care of several hundred or so aliens in this county on the dole, as well as his legitimate nieces and nephews.

Under a new congressional act, Los Angeles county has taken first step to purge the WPA roll of foreigners. We may expect this county to follow soon.

Nobody wants to see a poor family deprived of just public assistance.

But it should be borne in mind that the aliens who are now getting checks from the government and reaping the benefits and advantages which this land has to offer are doing so without undertaking the responsibilities of citizenship—such as military service in time of war.

Unless they are willing to stand shoulder to shoulder with native Americans in the duties of military service and the vote, they are not entitled to live at public expense.

No American could go to Canada or Mexico and live on the taxpayers.

And no alien should expect to come here and get undue privileges.

Maybe the reason more westerners aren't influenced by California propaganda is that they can't find a cool place to sit down and read it.

Lowly Bean a Milli-on-Dollar Product

Have a dish of beans with your orange juice, Mr. and Mrs. Orange County.

Another $100,000 will be distributed to bean growers July 20, bringing the total this year to $1,100,000, according to N. W. Berry, county representative of the California Lima Bean Growers association.

And prospects for the coming crop are rated as excellent by Harold E. Wahlberg, farm advisor.

This year's acreage stands at 32,000, about 4000 more than last year's. Moisture in the ground from the heavy rains last spring has provided in many cases an excellent stand and a quick growing crop.

All of which is great news, not only for the bean man, but also for his neighbors who indirectly share in the tremendous wealth which agriculture brings to this region.

CMTC boys served lemonade between drills really shouldn't get the idea that war is like that.

Fireworks On Way Out at H. B.

There must have been too many fireworks last July Fourth at Huntington Beach. City council there has drawn up an ordinance banning them.

In this action, the council follows the move of Santa Barbara, which also got an overdose of pyrotechnics.

Few people want to step on the fun that youngsters and grownups, too, get from an indiscriminate fusillade of powder on Independence day.

But enough is enough, as the little boy said when he ran to mama after a roman candle had exploded in his hand.

There would be no action against fireworks unless unwise and unsafe handling had forced communities to take it.

History not only repeats itself, but is becoming louder.

Why Not Do a Thorough Job?

We see by The Journal that Santa Ana Junior college will fold up its earthquake tents and convert the school storeroom into a classroom for pupils affected.

No doubt the change will be quite an improvement.

But the biggest improvement which could be made at the local institution, in our opinion, would be to fold up some of the ancient and decrepit buildings now gracing the hodge-podge campus, and build a real college setup in their place.

Until an adequate Jaycee plant is built here, no great growth can be expected in the student body. Out-of-town colleges will continue to get youngsters who should be coming to Santa Ana.

FREE DISCUSSION IS BEST POLICY

WASHINGTON.—A recent incident in the Soviet union illustrates perfectly the dangers involved in control of the press and in regimentation of public information.

It reinforces the philosophy which has prevailed in the United States that full and free discussion, untrammelled, is the soundest policy.

A president may at times think a free press is a nuisance but I don't think this President or any other ever seriously wanted to see it go. They know it is best for the country the way it is.

EDITOR DISAPPEARS

In Soviet Russia, newspapers are supplied with material by tans, the official government agency. Recently the head of this agency disappeared. His arrest is taken for granted. One Soviet newspaper charges that this news executive and his associates "carried out the dictates of Fascist bosses" through a malicious selection of news. It accuses them of overemphasizing favorable news and suppressing self-criticism and information which would have exposed sabotage. The paper complains that instead of unmasking the shortcomings of industry in its locality, and the mismanagement of collective farms, the news agency published a flowery article about the arrival of spring and the sale of Spanish oranges.

NO MAN WISE ENOUGH

Doubtless the editor of tans thought he was helping the government by suppressing unfavorable news. That is the general attitude which dictators and their censors take. But in this case the editor is a traitor because he did not print the unfavorable news.

Fundamentally, the reason a controlled press is dangerous is that no man is wise enough all of the time to know what should be printed and what should not.

LOOK OUT, CLAPPER

If this were Russia, what would the censor's decision have been on a recent column of mine concerning the C. I. O. drive to organize government workers? The article mentioned the concern which is felt over the danger of government-employee labor union strikes, and mentioned the government itself. Roosevelt has since stated flatly that no union of employees can strike against the government.

There were immediate reverberations from the article. One C. I. O. leader told me that the article was useful in helping them run extremists and in keeping the movement on a sound basis which would recognize the special limiting circumstances surrounding employees working for the federal government. Others in the C. I. O. group were indignant and rumors of reprisals came drifting back within a few days. I had criticized the movement and I would be taken care of.

Thus leaders in the C. I. O.'s government movement in this instance had opposing reactions as to the effect of that article upon themselves. One thought it helpful in the nature of constructive criticism. The other thought it injurious.

What would a censor have done with the piece? How could he know whether it ought to be printed or not?

IGNORANCE IS BLISS

In our 1933 bank crisis, newspapermen were uncertain whether it was better voluntarily to suppress news of bank crashes lest publication aggravate the panic or whether by printing the facts fully the public would know the worst and be protected at least against the movement and rumors which always thrive underground when there is suppression.

Time after time, in every active newspaperman's life, he debates with himself whether it is more harmful to suppress certain information or to publish it. The more experience one has in the business, the more he leans toward a flat working rule that if it is true it ought to be printed, and that in the long run it is healthier that everyone should know the facts, be they pleasant or not, than to remain in blissful ignorance. We are all ignorant enough as it is.

Out having information deliberately kept from us.

There has been a little inside grumbling in the navy department over the tremendous cost of the rescue efforts for Amelia Earhart.

This is chiefly because navy aviators had repeatedly warned Miss Earhart regarding the risks she was taking in her long overseas hops, and asked her not to take them.

Cost of the navy's rescue work was $250,000 a day. Moreover, quite a few naval aviators risked their lives in their search flights.

The Earhart flight also has put the commerce department in a somewhat embarrassing hole, because department officials had forced the French government to call off its transatlantic air force for fear exactly the same thing would happen to one of the contestants as did actually happen to Miss Earhart.

The French government at first refused, following which the commerce department threatened to deny taking-off privileges to the air race contestants. It was explained that any crash at sea would create a bad public impression and hurt the new transatlantic air service opened this summer.

But the department granted a license and all privileges to Miss Earhart.

ROOSEVELT WEDDING
Some of the inside highlights of the Roosevelt-DuPont wedding have not leaked out yet, one of them being that Anna Roosevelt Boettiger was not the only lady who took off her shoes.

No less than five young ladies took off both their shoes and stockings.

This was because of the terrific rainstorm. The deluge was so heavy and the entrance to Owl's Nest so wet, that the young ladies simply took off their shoes and stockings left them in their cars, dropped their gowns about their knees, put their escorts' coats about their shoulders, and dashed for the door.

Once inside, they dropped their long gowns, hiding their feet, and remained barefoot.

A total of 1300 of those invited had sent in acceptances, but 2400 arrived. They all brought invitations—which 1100 had not accepted—and all were admitted anyway.

The automobiles were so packed along the narrow road that it took Jim Farley three hours to get to the DuPont house. Chief difficulty was in parking. The DuPonts had plowed up a 60-acre field, rolled it, then surfaced it with oil. But the rain soon penetrated this, making it a bog.

Automobiles were mired to the hub. It was impossible to get some of them out. In the middle of the reception, the bride's father picked up the telephone and ordered two tractors to come out from town. But soon even they were so clogged with mud as to be almost ineffectual in pulling the cars out.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON.—That $75,000-a-year job which has been kicking around the capital for a couple of months has been turned down again, this time by Harry Hopkins.

The $75,000 is the annual salary offered by the liquor distillers of America for a "czar" for their industry. Hopkins was almost persuaded to leave his WPA job and become head of the Distilled Spirits Institute. This is the office left vacant by the death of W. Forbes Morgan, uncle of Mrs. Roosevelt.

Harry turned down the job, but he did it a little reluctantly. He consulted first with the President. The latter told him flatly to reject it, indicating that he would make it up to Harry in the future.

This probably means that when the new cabinet post for social welfare is created by the government reorganization bill, Harry Hopkins will get the job.

Most rueful person in Washington recently has been Mrs. Hopkins. She hated to see Harry lose that $75,000.

NOTE.—A salary of $75,000 usually does not go begging, but the whiskey distillers certainly have had a tough time getting someone to take their cash. Those who have turned it down include Jim Farley, Charles Michelson and General Johnson.

One Man's Opinion

By X REPORTER

16-Alaska Series
GENES OF THE OCEAN

I admire glaciers. They are so patient, so persevering. They work day and night at their never-ending job, and seem never to get tired. Of course, in the long run, they get a lot done.

Glaciers and volcanoes have done a lot to fashion the surface of the world we live on. Volcanoes are flamboyant, bombastic, hysterical. Glaciers are calm, quiet, cool (of course) and self-possessed.

Having just returned from the land where glaciers were born—Alaska—I assume, like all returned travelers, that everyone will sooner or later make the same journey.

When you do, you'll doubtless become a glacier fan, even as a lot of the rest of us. There are degrees and degrees of this fanaticism, but as far as I know, absolutely none who dislike or are indifferent to glaciers.

But if there is just one such in this land—a glacier-hater or one who is indifferent to them—he should be captured forthwith and taken by boat to the face of Columbia glacier, between Cordova and Valdez, Alaska, and given an opportunity to revise his opinion of glaciers and also of himself.

There a Mississippi of purest crystal turquoise comes winding down a mountain gorge and gives itself to Mother ocean.

A big ship—big as man-made things go—steams up to within a quarter of a mile of the face of Columbia glacier, and immediately becomes a mere chip upon the face of the waters. "Important" men and women on the ship become as microbes on a chip in a limitless lake.

A two-hundred-foot wall of solid blue ice. Four miles from one side to the other, and winding back into the ageless hills for 120 miles or more.

Now, and then a block of ice the size of a skyscraper or a battleship separates itself from the glacier wall and hits the sea with a cannon's roar. Its broken parts float out to sea like gondolas or snow-white chariots.

The last time I crashed into the sea was snow on yonder distant peak when Ramesses II rode the Nile.

The glacier carved then as it carves now. That is its task—to carve and fashion the face of the earth, purity, beauty and power—glaciers.

The Mailbag

Public opinion, or what somebody in this league has taken to call "the opinion," is our ruler. If public opinion is active, the politicians and people sit up and take notice. There is a definite need for outspoken talking and thinking on public matters. Honest, intelligent, fair discussion of our problems is immensely useful. So that every citizen may have his say and contribute to the formation of public opinion, The Journal invites letters to The Mailbag.

THIRD TERM? YES!
To the Editor: I see so much about taking a straw vote to see if people are satisfied for Mr. Roosevelt to have a third term that I am writing this open letter to him through your newspaper: Mr. Roosevelt, would I vote for you again? God bless you, yes. I don't forget when first you graced the White House chair, I was looking the world in the face in dire despair.

I had two children's mouths to feed, a home to keep all by myself and my cupboard's scanty shelves. Each day I tried my children's healthy appetites to fill. I worked all day away from home so hard my back would ache and burn, and as my daily recompense I was paid exactly 50 cents.

But one day when I went to work all neat and clean as the day before, I heard these words to cheer me up: "We do not need you any more."

"What?" I said, "Is my work so bad?" "Oh, no, you are always so cheerful, clean and neat, but we're just not making both ends meet."

I walked out and down the street and that day I met a friend who told me about the SERA. A neighbor took me down. I gave the necessary information.

I went home that rainy night with a new hope and gleam of light.

Now what I want to say to you is that I've found the President's words come true.

You said "you were going to help the folks in need. By the grace of God, their mouths you'd feed." Not only that but hope and restore within each breast.

And have you done it? God bless you. MARY HODGES SHAW, Garden Grove.

THIRD TERM
To the Editor: We, the 11½ million free lance voters who seldom vote or who cast our first votes in '32 and '36, will draft President Roosevelt for a third term.

To us, precedents are simply taboo. We re-elect to congress and repeat as we choose to do so.

Why discard a good executive after two terms? F. M. K.

WANTS BOND STATEMENT
To the Editor: As an ignorant voter and taxpayer, I as well as a number of others in this community, would like a public statement through your paper from county supervisors in regard to the $2,500,000 about to be voted upon.

What will become of the money or bonds voted if for any reason the government should fail to complete the project?

In order that we can intelligently vote, we would appreciate an answer to that question. Costa Mesa. F. R. FINCH.

WHIMSIES

DAY BY DAY

With O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK.—Every morning between 6 and 7 there strolls northward on Madison avenue in the 50's a Tuxedoed gentleman, a bit weary, on his way home. Strangers turn slowly and smile knowingly. To them, of course, he is another stay-out on the last lap of a hectic night.

But to familiars he is Arnold Reuben, the delicatessen man, whose restaurant for more than 20 years in various parts of town has been a fixed haven of the celebrities of the stage, cinema and radio and other callings identified with amusements.

Reuben has stood in the entrance as a greeter from the time his place was a two by twice sandwich shop on upper Broadway until it reached its present opulence. He knows the inside lives of his customers more than most anyone of his day, and there are few he has not befriended.

The Reuben crowd does not really begin to collect until around 3 a. m. It is composed largely of those in white ties who have been doing the town, from Greenwich Village to Harlem, and do not consider a night out complete without having stopped off at Reuben's.

No newspaperman has been so successful in complete cessation of activities after a busy life as Karl Bickel, who decided to retire as the head of a press association a few years ago. Bickel had worked furiously and at top speed for more than 25 years, and there were those who said he could never be happy again after the grind. But he burned all his bridges behind him, built a home at Sarasota, Fla., and, as he says, "just loafed." Sometimes with the local banker, other times with the shoe cobbler or watchmaker or horse-drawn carriage driver.

So preoccupied is he doing nothing he only looks at his mail once a week.

In the mail comes a letter asking for money, and on either side of the letter, the left and right margins, is a list of patrons and patronesses. So long a list that if each lady and each gentleman would give $5 to the charity it would be a considerable sum.

The precociousness of the modern youth continues to bewilder older folks. Fannie Hurst has a friend who was doing a difficult crossword puzzle and was stuck for a word meaning loss and pointless talk. He asked his married daughter, who did not know, but his 9-year grandson, who was not asked, said: "Try filibuster." Later he came on "flying buttress."

He also stumbled on the household word meaning loss and pointless talk. He asked his married daughter, who did not know, but his 9-year grandson, who was not asked, said: "Try filibuster." Later he came on "flying buttress."
